HAS T. R. KEY TO PARALYTIC'S PAST?

J. R. R.

"The Man Who Was"—the speechless paralytic whose life for the last seven years has been a struggle to the initials "J. R. R."—has furnished the attendants of the New York sanitarium in which he is kept with the first clues to his past.

This past, as indicated by his exclamations during a few brief moments of memory the other day, was laid in Washington, in the highest official circles, and the key to it is held by Theodore Roosevelt.

YOUR HAIR NEEDS
PARISIAN SAGE
It Quickly Removes Dandruff, Stops Falling Hair and Scalp Itch.

Just because your hair is full of dandruff, thin, streaky, dull and never will do up to look pretty, do not think it must be so. Beautiful hair, thick, fluffy, lustrous and absolutely free from dandruff is only a matter of care. Parisian Sage frequently applied and well rubbed into the scalp will work wonders. Just one application stops itching head, removes dandruff and all excessive oil. It goes right to the hair roots and furnishes the nourishment needed—the hair becomes soft, wavy, abundant and radiant with life.

Parisian Sage, which can be had at any drug or toilet counter, not only saves the hair but stimulates it to grow long and heavy. Get a 50 cent bottle from Smith Drug Co. at once. There is no other "Just-as-good."

TWO MEN SENTENCED IN MORNING SESSION

Woodstock Man Given Twenty Days and Charles Kingsley Ninety on Drunkenness Charge.

Fifteen dollars and costs or twenty days in jail, was the sentence given to Frank Elieis of Woodstock, on a charge of being drunk and disorderly. Elieis being unable to pay his fine, was put to work on the wood pile at the county jail this afternoon.

It was at first thought that Elieis would be charged with a more serious offense of impersonating an officer or using an assumed name, for he created considerable trouble in the city Saturday. Elieis first hired a rig from the Goodman livery and went to the Charles Hallet residence on North Jackson street, where he demanded that a woman be handed over to him, to answer the charges of bigamy, stating that his name was Henderson, and that he was the son of the sheriff of McHenry county, Illinois. On being questioned he claimed he had the requisition papers for the arrest. Although the family insisted that he had made a mistake, he was persistent and demanded that he be investigated. Becoming suspicious, Mr. Hallet telephoned to the police who started a search for the supposed officer. Elieis then sent the rig back to the Goodman livery and, with payment, the proprietor of the livery found him and on demanding the charges was given a dollar, and the man submitted his overcoat for fifty cents, which he later redeemed. Officer Albert in company with Mr. Hallet found Elieis at the North western station waiting to leave the city on the passenger which was over an hour late. At the police station Elieis admitted he was traveling under an assumed name and stated that he had no knowledge of doing wrong. In court this morning, he entered a plea of guilty to the drunkenness charge and for the next twenty days will be the guest of Sheriff Whipple.

Charles Kingsley, who was arrested at the Empire hotel, was given a ninety day flat term on a charge of drunkenness on his plea of being guilty to the charge.

This morning the drawing of the jury for the case against James Gullen of Milton Junction, charged with assault, was continued, and it is expected the summons will be served this afternoon for a jury of twelve.

Frank Ketchum, employed at the William Campbell farm, pleaded guilty to a statutory charge, preferred by Miss Clara Shumaker this morning, and the case was settled.

Following the plea of William Hutchinson of not guilty to assaulting Richard Finley, Judge Maxfield started work empaneling a jury of six, and the case was adjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. J. J. Cunningham represented the defendant and E. H. Ryan was prosecuting attorney.

ENGINE CAB BURNS IN ST. PAUL YARDS

Proft Work of Local Railroad Men Prevents and Serious Damage.

Sunday evening about ten o'clock the cab of engine 3110 caught fire from an unknown cause and was badly damaged. The entire roof of the cab was burned off, and had it not been for the fact that the engine was standing directly in front of the roundhouse, where the fire was discovered, immediately, greater loss might have been experienced through a spread of the sparks. The "Link and Pin" boys proved their efficiency as firemen and subdued the flames in short order. The cab was the only part of the engine that was damaged. It was driven into Milwaukee this morning by Engineer Goggen and Fireman Dangel for repairs.

Engineer Callahan and Fireman Kotte went on the six o'clock switch this morning.

Engines 3010 and 2052 which have been laid up for repairs, were driven light to Beloit this morning by Engineers Turner and Bush and Firemen Deen and Bickness.

Engineer Falter and Fireman Lovass were on the seven o'clock switch this morning.

Engineer McAniff and Fireman Sornow doubleheaded number 21 to Mineral Point this morning with engine 727.

The agents wish to report that most of the trains are coming in on time in spite of the cold weather.

FOOTVILLE FARMERS TO HAVE INSTITUTE

Program Announced for Session to Be Held Tuesday and Wednesday of Next Week.

Farmers in the western part of Rock county will enjoy an institute at Footville on Tuesday and Wednesday, Feb. 17 and 18, to be conducted by E. Nordman of Polar, Wisconsin. Other assistants in the work will be W. H. Clark, Rice Lake; Noyes R. Raessler, Beloit; E. Bingham, Sturgeon Bay; Supt. Geo. McKerron, Madison; E. L. Adertold, Neenah, of the dairy and food commission, and F. M. Balsley, Madison, of the state highway commission.

The program is announced as follows: Tuesday Morning Session 10 O'Clock. Soils and their Uses... Mr. Nordman. Proper Crops... Mr. Clark. Afternoon Session, 1:30 O'Clock. Seed Grains... Mr. Raessler. Fruits... Mr. Bingham. Good Feeding... Mr. Clark. Evening Session, 7:30 O'Clock. Musical Program Prepared by Local Committee.

Farmers and Education. Mr. Nordman. Wednesday Morning Session, 9:30. Meat Production... Supt. McKerron. Silo and Silage... Mr. Nordman. Alfalfa and Clover... Supt. McKerron. Afternoon Session, 1:30 O'Clock. Clean Dairies... Mr. Adertold. Good Feeding... Supt. McKerron. Roads... Chas. E. Moore, Mr. Balsley. In connection with the Farmers' Institute a Free Cooking School will be held the two afternoons of February 17th and 18th, to which the ladies of Footville and surrounding country are cordially invited. This branch of the work will be conducted by Miss Susan K. Brown of Luverne, Minnesota.

SOUTHERN WISCONSIN TITLE IS AT STAKE

Madison-Janesville High School Contest Friday Night in Local Gym. Promises Thrills.

The coming game, Friday, between the Madison and local high school basketball fives, promises to be the best contest on the local schedule this season. The contest will be the last words, settle the championship of southern Wisconsin. Racine are in the running, but they play Madison within the next three weeks, and the Capitol City boys are sure of defeating the aspirants from the Belle City.

Janesville is making big preparations for Friday, which day falls on the thirteenth. Those who are superstitious should turn their thoughts on a Janesville victory, by attending the clash. Coach Curtis is confident of trimming the Madison five, as the same is to be played on a floor which the locals are accustomed to. Captain Hemming believes Janesville has the better team, and predicts a victory.

From rumors going about, it is learned that Benway, star forward for Madison, is lucky. Outside of this one possibility of grabbing the title, there will be nothing less than a good stiff fight for both teams. Hemming has the shade on any center in the state, Atwood and Delton can outrun any man in the state on a floor work and pass, while Rau and Stickney will handle their men with entire satisfaction. Stewart may enter the game if his fractured nose heals up sufficiently to warrant him. Stickney can let loose some speed which he has stored away so that the contest should be a clean victory for Janesville. Madison have no individual stars, outside of Benway, who is a good consistent as are the whole team, but they have not met tough enough competition this year. In the La Crosse contest last Saturday they were defeated because of inexperience at the game. Interest is soaring high at the local high school in the coming game Friday.

MADISON LOSES TO LA CROSSE QUINTET

Capitol City Boys Outplay Northerners on Madison Floor Saturday Night But Lose 20 to 18.

One of the fastest and cleanest basketball contests ever played on the Madison high school floor took place Saturday night, when the La Crosse high school quintet nosed out a victory over the Capitol City boys by a 20 to 18 count. At the end of the contest the score stood a tie, 18 to 18, and it was decided that the first team scoring two points should be declared winners. The La Crosse bunch succeeded and captured the battle.

E. Wiedenbeck starred for Madison by holding Weiss, the big La Crosse center, to four baskets. If the contest had been a tie, Wiedenbeck would have been the star. Much credit has been due Gardner for holding Benway, Madison's star forward, to four baskets, a feat never before accomplished by Gardner and Fuller, at guard, allowed their forwards to secure but three baskets.

The result of this contest is of especial interest to the Janesville high school and her quintet. If the contest had been a tie, the state title would not be far away. Can the locals do it? That question is receiving the most earnest attention at the local high school this evening.

The score and lineup of the Madison-La Crosse contest follows:

Madison—Benway, 1 f.; E. Wiedenbeck and Carroll, r. f.; E. Wiedenbeck and Bassoon, c.; Cramer, l. g.; Fuller, r. g.
La Crosse—Melnert, 1 f.; Zeisler, r. f.; Weiss, c.; Pay, 1 g.; Gardner, r. g.; Wiedenbeck, Benway, 4; Weiss, 4; Wiedenbeck, Cramer, 2; Melnert, 3; Pay, 1; Zeisler, 1; Gardner, 1.
Free throws—Benway, 3; Carroll, 2; Weiss, 2.
Referee—Frank Youngman, Wisconsin.
Scorer—Evien.

NEW SERIAL BEGINS IN PAPER TONIGHT

One of George Barr McCutcheon's Stories Will Hold Interest of Readers.

On page eleven of the Gazette this evening is found the opening chapter of the new serial story, "The Hollow of Her Hand," by George Barr McCutcheon, one of America's most popular novelists. It is a thoroughly modern tale, crowded from beginning to end with action and mystery that cannot fail to hold the interest of the readers. It is told in Mr. McCutcheon's vivid style and has thrills in plenty, including a puzzling domestic tangle.

"Broadway Jones," the novelization of George M. Cohan's play, which ends in tonight's issue, has been a favorite with Gazette readers who have been delighted to follow the transformation of the young spendthrift into a really worth-while sort of person.

RACINE A STRONG FIVE IN SOUTHERN SECTION OF STATE

Belle City Five Defeats Elkhorn, Friday Night, 17 to 15—Competition Is Gradually Diminishing.

As the result of last week's high school basketball scores throughout Wisconsin, the competition for the state title is diminishing very rapidly. More stronger fives are appearing on the field, which is encouraging to fans, who are watching the state situation like a clock. As a larger number of strong teams appear in the various sections, it means that the lighter fives are being continuously defeated, and that they have little or no chance of competing further for Badger honors.

In the southern section Racine high school five came out into the arena by defeating Elkhorn high, Friday night, on the former floor, 17 to 15. This eliminates Elkhorn in the title race. Racine, Madison and Janesville are now leaders in southern Wisconsin, with all other schools eliminated by comparative scores. This is the southern situation at present.

Madison's defeat by La Crosse highs does not alter conditions a little bit. The reason is, each team holds a place in different sections of the basketball playing districts, set by Appleton officials at Lawrence college. The final count was 20 to 18 in La Crosse's favor, the contest being played overtime.

Wausau still holds top notch place in the north-central section. They swamped Stanley Friday, 44 to 18. Poys at center starred with six baskets.

The Fond du Lac five is without a doubt the strongest five in their section. They added another win by eliminating Menasha, Friday night, 45 to 6. Ellison, left forward, secured twelve baskets, while Rice at center secured four.

Eau Claire may be given another chance. Wausau defeated them earlier in the season, but the latter five is redeeming themselves. Chippewa falls were defeated by Eau Claire Saturday, 32 to 8.

Menominee is leader in the extreme northern section. They resorted last week to playing an all-star aggregation, composed of the best players from east and west high schools of Minnesota, 19 to 16. They make great promises for the future.

Oshkosh is still clinging on. They eliminated West Green Bay Thursday night on the latter floor, 18 to 15. The Oshkosh Normal tourney, held sometime this month, will undoubtedly see many of these weaker fives entered, but it is safe to state, the Fond du Lac, will be the strongest team at the finish. Oshkosh has a bare chance.

Baraboo came back Friday and whalloped Sparta, 15 to 10. In the previous contest, Baraboo lost to Sparta, 38 to 12. The scores appear quite different, and the floor evidently had something to do with playing in the first game. The Baraboo five are now champs of the central section and are credited with three wins and one defeat.

Janesville took Edgerton into camp Friday on the latter floor, 23 to 31. The game was ragged from start to finish. Janesville meets Madison on the Bower City floor Friday in the title game of the southern section.

BAR COACHING FROM SIDELINES IN GAMES

Football Rules Committee Makes Slight Changes in Rules at New York Meeting.

With the intention of stopping coaches from directing football contests from the sidelines and hindering the players from using their own judgment and generalship, the intercollegiate football rules committee, at the meeting in New York, Saturday, effected a rule whereby coaches will be barred from the sidelines.

In the past, coaches have practically directed a football contest with signals given from the sidelines, having the quarterbacks and captains from making the contests purely between the two opposing teams. The coaches also employed tactics of taking players out and sending a substitute in with instructions for playing. The new rule aims to give the captains of the contesting eleven full sway in playing and running the contest, while on the field. Intentionally grounding of players, passes, a play that was used extensively in the Army-Navy game last year to a good advantage, will be penalized by the loss of ten yards from the point of scrimmage, and a yard out of bounds when the ball is put into play.

Under last year's rules there was no penalty for the offense the first time that it was committed.

On a touchback the team will be forced to place the ball in scrimmage on the twenty-five yard line instead of having a choice of punting as this advantage was seldom used, the teams preferring to put the ball in play until they were forced to kick. When the ball from a free kick hits a goal post and bounds back into the field, it is counted a touchdown, making this undecided point which caused a tangle between several of the eastern colleges in the last two years, clear. The committee left it optional with the teams to decide on a fourth official, a field judge, to act as an assistant to the referee and umpire. No decision was reached regarding the question raised last year for the numbering of players, as the leading colleges have agreed to experiment on this plan, and the committee will await the results before making the numbering a rule. With these slight changes it is evident that the football coaches are satisfied with the progress of the game and the success of the open game, and there is very little improvement to be made.

Ball players are beginning to object to the idea of playing extra games. The ball players fraternity would like to be able to take steps to do away with them and who knows? Perhaps they will. Once they get a notion in their nuts they seem pretty well able to get by with it. Players figure that about 163 games a season are enough and they don't take to the notion of having the schedule moved up that on days may be utilized for exhibition games. Well, let 'em go ahead and can them and see if we care.

Poor little Rudy Unholz "had to have the money." So he went against Ad Wolgast with never a chance in the world to win and prospects of nothing more than a most unpleasant beating. In less than two rounds he was scarcely able to rise to his feet and limp away. Unholz hadn't been really active in the ring for quite some years. He was not in training and was suffering from poor health. But he was on his way through Chicago to Fond du Lac and hadn't a dime in the world. Wolgast had guaranteed him $200 and Rudy figured he had to try and take it. So he entered the ring and did his best to stand up under a terrific beating.

LEADING VARSITIES STRONG FOR SPRING CONTESTS ON TRACK

Representatives of Army-Navy Teams Propose to Stage Game at Yale Stadium—Other College Notes.

New York, Feb. 9.—With the spring track and field schedules completed and large squads of athletes training at all the eastern universities, it is possible to secure a general line on the activities and prospects of the various teams for the season of 1914. While all the leading colleges report many veteran and novice chunder and turf performers in training, there appears to be little indication at this time of unusual advantage at any one particular institution with the possible exception of Pennsylvania. According to general report there is a noticeable lack of sensational novice material for the varsity teams and trainers are, as a rule, counting upon the veterans of the past two seasons for the points which may be reasonably apportioned among the colleges so early in the season.

Using the intercollegiate championship meet of last year as a basis upon which to work it is seen that Pennsylvania, which won the 1913 title with a score of twenty-four points, is again favored with athletic material of considerable strength. The Red and Blue appears to have the most balanced team in sight, being strong in every position except hurdling. Lippincott and Patterson, winners of the 100 and 220, and McCurdy, two mile champion, are in training. Young Meredith, the world's record holder for the one-half mile, will be eligible this spring. Kelly is an excellent performer at both the 440 and the broad jump. In Lane, Pennsylvania has a high jumper capable of clearing six feet consistently. In the weights and pole vault the Quakers are well supplied with high class performers.

Slump at Harvard. The outlook at Harvard, which finished second with 21½ points, is not so satisfactory, and Coaches Powers and Donovan will have to develop a number of new men if the Crimson team is to repeat its record of last season. The Cambridge squad promises to be strong in the middle and long distance runs and the weight events. Many point winners were lost by graduation last June and the freshman material of 1913 is not particularly promising when compared to that of the other colleges in the east.

Develop New Team. At Cornell Trainer Jack Moakley has 140 athletes in training. The Ithaca team finished with 17½ points in 1913, being defeated for third place by Michigan. Moakley has stated that he faces an unusually hard problem this year, since he must develop a new team. Of the point winners of last season but Roller and Van Kenna remain. This pair won 3½ points for the Cornell score. To offset this heavy loss by graduation the team will be strengthened by a number of promising recruits from last year's freshman team and several athletes imported in 1913. Two of the latter are David Caldwell, formerly of Massachusetts Agricultural College, a half-mile, and Morrison, a high jumper from Leland Stanford. Judging from the material in sight Cornell should be strong in field events and middle distance runs but weak in sprints and hurdles.

Fair Material. Dartmouth, which won fifth place at the I. A. A. A. meet with 14½ points, is not optimistic regarding the track team. Coach Harry Hillman states that, like Cornell, graduation of their letter men in 1913 but eight remain and of these Whitney, the intercollegiate shot-put champion, is the only sure point winner. Fair material is in sight for the one-half and mile runs, the hurdles and the pole vault.

Yale is Darkhorse. Yale is at present weak in distance runners but in both sprints and field events has veteran and novice competitors who should win places in both dual and championship meets. The Blue has Captain Brown, who won the intercollegiate half-mile, and Potter, second in the 220 hurdles as a novice. Oler, 1913 freshman team captain, is expected to win a place in the high jump and Talbot to do as well in the hammer throw. If Trainer Mack can develop several high class sprinters and distance runners the Elis will prove formidable.

Stars Graduate. Prospects at Princeton are not as satisfactory as at New Haven for the Tigers lost fourteen of the 1913 team by graduation. To offset this the 1914 class will furnish a number of athletes who did well in freshman track competition. One or two athletes ineligible last spring will also be able to compete. These taken together with the eleven veterans available should provide a team numerically strong but Trainer Keene Fitzpatrick will have to increase the standard of performance if the Oranges and Blacks is to finish better than ninth place, which was Princeton's mark as a result of the six points collected at Cambridge in the intercollegiate last May.

Yale-Navy Contest. The question of the scene of the 1914 Yale-Navy football game is already being discussed by representatives of the two academies. The proposal to play the game in the Yale stadium, which will hold 60,000 spectators, is receiving favorable consideration at West Point, but it is said that the Navy will agree upon the trip to New Haven. Lieut. D. P. Sultan, the Army representative, states: "We are now negotiating with the Navy in regard to the place for next year's Army-Navy game, but have reached no agreement as yet. So far as the Army is concerned the Yale field would be entirely satisfactory, move, and I should think we can profitably to New Haven is so great that up the work from where we left it last year."

would not agree to play the game in the Yale bowl." T. DeWitt Cuyler, chairman of the committee of twenty-five in charge of the building of the bowl, says: "In regard to the possibility of the Yale Bowl being used for the Army-Navy football game when completed, I should be very strongly in favor of such a plan if it could be brought about. It would undoubtedly give the Army and Navy facilities they have never enjoyed, but I am fearful that the Navy would object on the ground of the distance."

Returns to Wild. The former Carlisle Indian school football center Wheelock, who until recently was a student at the University of Idaho, has abandoned the idea of further college education and returned to his teepee. Football Coach Gilfill is mourning the loss of the famous redman, whose sudden departure he is unable to explain.

Sets Fast Pace. "Dad" Moulton, recent trainer at the Stanford University, is authority for the statement that the Palo Alto University has a future world's record sprinter in young Dick Grant of Portland, Oregon. Grant has a record of 10.15 seconds for the hundred yards as a scholastic runner and is expected to run inside of ten seconds this spring.

Camp Explains. Walter Camp in a recent address to the Yale alumni of Rhode Island on the Yale athletic situation and the prospects for the future spoke in an optimistic vein as follows: "It is perfectly true that in the last two or three years we haven't progressed as we used to progress. I have said it was not easy to win but it was simple. We did it by not making a mistake twice. When we found out a mistake one year we did not make that mistake the next year. We are not looking for 'easy fruit'. If we are down, we have made some start all along the line. Now, we are going on in the same way with football as last year, playing it from the bottom, and we have a first class coach in Quinby, who knows the game and can handle men."

Crew System. The crew situation is in the hands of a committee. They have a hard task. The idea is not to have three different systems, and an inoffensive set of eight men to stand for it, but to get men in charge who will develop a continuous policy. Armstrong will be in charge and we have Guy Nickalls, who is probably the master English oar, both in performance and coaching work. We don't hope to have Nickalls and keep him there for more than a year or two, and we want some one who will stay on, who will carry on the same system. Eugene Giannini will work very well with Nickalls. He has not had experience in coaching four-mile college crews, but the committee hopes that the arrangement will work out. In Frank Hinkley—who, in addition to being one of the old school players, has always been a man who is willing to try a new play. He is ready to grass in good fashion there and take up the work from where we left it last year."

THREE GAZETTE ADVERTISEMENTS IN THREE DAYS SELL THREE THOUSAND "BIG GEORGE" CIGARS

HERE YOU ARE AGAIN MR. MERCHANT AND MR. MANUFACTURER. Another concrete demonstration of what the Gazette advertising columns can do for any good concern.

THE ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN FOR "BIG GEORGE" CIGARS was carefully planned and executed by the Gazette Advertising Department. The results of the first three days efforts; after a thorough distribution of the cigars was made; carefully checked, show that OVER THREE THOUSAND INDIVIDUAL SALES WERE MADE.

THE GAZETTE WAS THE ONLY MEDIUM OF ADVERTISING USED. Nothing else was considered. Nothing else is necessary to thoroughly cover this field. The Gazette reaches daily over 90% of the population of Rock County.

THE SERVICE OF THE GAZETTE ADVERTISING DEPARTMENT is free to our advertisers. It includes the planning of comprehensive selling plans, writing of advertising copy and a conscientious effort to develop your business.

RIGHT HERE CLOSE TO YOU IS AN OPPORTUNITY to bring about an increase in your sales. The Gazette and the Services of its advertising Department offer that opportunity. Let us get together and work out your proposition profitably.

WEATHER FORECAST.

In this vicinity the weather will be cloudy and unsettled, probably with snow tonight and Tuesday. The temperature will rise slowly.

WHAT IS AN EMPLOYER?

The following paragraph, from the address of Dr. William J. H. Boetcker, delivered at the Commercial club banquet, the other night, is worth re-reading, and thoughtful consideration.

"I believe that the employer of today is one of the most abused of men. It must be understood in the first place that the employer is not the capitalist, but it is his function to borrow capital and make it productive along certain lines, bringing it in contact with labor for the obtaining of the best results. Eighty per cent of the employers started as employees and 95 per cent of the employers are not capitalists. The employer worries the most, works the longest, gets all the blame for failures, and in place of credit, abuse is heaped upon him.

"The employer is the man on the inside, handling capital on the one hand so that it may have a safe investment, and labor on the other, in order that it may be productive and that the workingmen may live and prosper. The employer sweats blood to maintain the stability of capital and the dignity of labor, and still there are those who are ready to hit him on the head when he is so busily engaged with these two great productive forces of industry that he has not the time or the chance to protect himself.

"If this sort of thing continues the day will come when the employer can't stand it any longer and capital will return to its vaults valueless and labor will return to the streets unproductive. The employer is the most misunderstood of men and it is partly his own fault for he has forgotten, in the press of solving his urgent problems, that he must create a popular sentiment; he has been too busy employing and working in order that the results of capital and labor combined and co-related, may be achieved. The American people, however, are fair and I believe they will give you a fair deal. But as the jury they must be apprised of the facts and when they understand the conditions, then their verdict will be all square deal to all."

The employer is usually considered a capitalist, but according to Mr. Boetcker's statement, but a very small minority belong to this class, and a little thought will convince the most skeptical that he is right.

The employer of labor for the railroads and large corporations, is an employee. He may be at the head of some department, but he is a salaried man, and is held accountable for the capital invested.

This is true of the smaller industries. The officers are employers of labor, but employees of the company, and borrowed capital enters very largely into the situation. The capital demands first protection, and when neglected, bankruptcy results.

There are always two sides to a question, and Mr. Boetcker shows very clearly the employer's side of this question.

AN AGE OF PROGRESS.

That we live in a progressive age, is apparent to the most casual observer, and it is gratifying to know that the housewife is sharing generously in the inventions and discoveries of the last decade. Perhaps in no field outside of gas and electricity, are these improvements more apparent.

The National Commercial Gas association, composed of some three thousand members, recently held a convention in Philadelphia, where all kinds of modern cooking utensils were displayed, from the smallest, adapted to the four room flat, to the largest for use in the great hotels.

Water heaters of all kinds were also on exhibition, including the instantaneous kind that lights the gas and instantly heats the water in a central automatic heater immediately for use when a faucet anywhere in the house is turned on to draw water. This beats the hot water heater to a standstill.

The exhibition included all sorts of devices for shop and factory purposes where gas is used in a thousand different ways. Every community has a local gas company, fully equipped to serve the public with these modern inventions, which are well worth looking into.

BY PARCEL POST.

Here is the latest in the line of usage of the parcel post by an enterprising eastern woman. That she is a Yankee through and through is certain and the success of her plan also shows the possibilities that the parcel post may be put to.

"Sarah Mitchell of Durham, Me., is advertising a cooked dinner of chicken, plum pudding, gravy, hard sauce, cranberry sauce, mince pie, pumpkin pie and vegetables delivered by parcel post.

"She put a little advertisement in a local newspaper and orders began to pour in upon her at once. She sends enough of all these good things for four people for $2.21, including postage. All that is necessary to prepare the dinner for the table is to warm it."

This increase in the cost of running the state university has become a trifle more than annoying to the university authorities who would like to be excused from explaining why some employees draw two or three different salaries. By the way, Merilla Hull knows all about this. Why has he kept silent so long?

This is about cold enough to start discussion of many an interesting debate on who will be the next commissioner at the April election. Last year Janesville celebrated election day by having one of the greatest conflagrations in its history. What will come this year?

There was many a man who spent Sunday morning sitting ashes for the week and wondering where all that coal had gone. Meanwhile his family sat upstairs and wondered why it did not get warmer.

Maybe that ground hog was right after all but it is certain the robins who arrived in Janesville ahead of time had a very bad tip on the weather for the next few days to say the least.

The ice man has nothing but smiles these days and sometimes one wonders if the coal man's pleasant looks are not just a bit too sinister for comfort. "Anyway, old Boreas has paid his usual visit."

President Wilson cannot be accused of not giving fair warning if the American merchant marine should now insist on coming into existence and paying Panama canal tolls.

The man who wanted to know "Why is zero?" had his answer Sunday if he put his nose out of the front door to reach for the Sunday paper. He knew then without looking it up in a book.

There are a lot of Americans who don't know much about the Declaration of Independence and the constitution that can tell on the instant what Ty Cobb's batting average is.

Still, the Rothschild who paid $5,000 for a flea will probably be able to get his money's worth of diversion out of it if he places it properly.

Sulzer says that grafters get $6,000, 000 out of the state of New York, inasmuch as he is "the same old Bill," he ought to know.

Congressman Glass says panics will be impossible under the new currency law. But will that information be pleasing to everybody?

Mr. Taft arises to explain that when he spoke of "coming back" he referred to Yale athletics and not himself.

A California minister says that more men sin at forty than at twenty. It must be true, then, that the good die young.

Heart to Heart Talks

By CHARLES N. LURIE

KEEP TABS ON YOURSELF.

Here's an excellent idea—a most excellent idea!

Self analysis is its name, and it has been applied heretofore only to teachers. But it is capable of indefinite extension. You and I, for instance, could use it well, whatever our business or occupation.

This is the idea: You keep tabs on yourself. You set down in writing—honestly, of course—your own good and bad points.

You analyze yourself, as the chemist takes a compound substance and resolves it into its elements.

The teachers put themselves through a rigid examination by means of a "self help" card. The questions appear on the card under two main headings—the personality of the teacher and the recitation.

He or she asks himself or herself: Am I vigorous or weak, poised or nervous, neat or slovenly, at ease or embarrassed? Is my voice pleasing or harsh, clear or indistinct, low or high?

In my personal relations with my pupils do I appear to stimulate or suppress, do I win the cordial co-operation of my pupils or do I antagonize them? Am I sympathetic or harsh, strict or lax, even tempered or irritable, tolerant or intolerant, dignified or undignified, courteous or rude, encouraging or nagging, firm or weak, tactful or blundering, enthusiastic or diffident, quick or slow to react, quiet or noisy, systematic or disorderly, resourceful or independent?

Now—Granting that a teacher or any one else answers these questions to himself or herself truthfully, according to the best inward light, how can the result be taught by good?

Analyze yourself! Learn your merits and your deficiencies. So shall you learn to augment the former and eliminate the latter. And the result will be the upbuilding of character and growth in wisdom and power.

You see, it is the application to personality of the efficiency idea, so much exploited of late in the business world.

The man whose business needs a doctor calls in an efficiency expert, who points out the leaks and wastes and faults of system. The men or women whose personalities are ill need efficiency engineers.

Only there is this difference: The best efficiency expert to call in to doctor your personality is yourself.

The Diary of the Bonehead.

A short time ago I noticed an advertisement in one of the fifteen-cent magazines which interested me. It read:

"SEND US ONE DOLLAR and we will tell you how to amass a great fortune."

The more I read the advertisement the more it was impressed upon me that this was just what I wanted to do. I had done almost everything else in my life and amassing a fortune would be a new experience to me. I imagined that it would be a pleasant experience, as several of my neighbors who had amassed fortunes seemed to be enjoying life.

My wife had often told me that I should amass a great fortune and this magazine advertisement happened along at just the psychological moment. I wasn't doing anything else at the time and I felt I could expend a little energy on this matter without having it detract from my other business affairs. Amassing a great fortune! Strange, indeed, that I had never thought of it until I read the magazine advertisement.

I sent the dollar and broke the news to my wife. "We are about to amass a great fortune," said I. "Of course it will change our social status to some extent. We will move in the six-cylinder set, whereas heretofore we have been in the rambunctious class."

Of course my wife went out immediately and blew $400 for clothes and I placed a mortgage on the house and bought a larger automobile than the peanut roaster which we had before we thought of amassing a great fortune.

In due time we received a letter from the firm which had advertised in the magazine. The letter read: Dear Sir: We said we would tell you how to amass a great fortune. The way to amass a great fortune is to make a great deal of money and hang onto it."

Afterthoughts. Senator Jim Ham Lewis doesn't know whether he is forty-nine or fifty years old. Anyhow, he is old enough to know better than to wear pink whiskers.

Down south they are giving eggs for wedding presents. That is to say, the very rich are giving them. Some editor is puzzled to know why an egg should be considered so much dearer at five cents than a middling cigar. Perhaps it is because the egg is for family use, while the cigar is for personal use of the family head. But few families are so poor that the worthy head finds it necessary to cut out tobacco or booze if he uses either or both.

General Villa is said to rank with Huerta. Yes, indeed, and, if anything, he is a little ranker. Those who are boycotting eggs must certainly be saving money to buy automobiles.

APOLLO THEATRE.

Tuesday and Wednesday. "Checkers," as adapted to motion pictures by the author, Augustus Thomas, will be shown at the Apollo.

One of the biggest sellers of American novels, Henry M. Blossom, Jr.'s story of "Checkers," made into play form, instantly scored a wild-fire success, and with Thomas W. Ross as the star, it played all over America to crowded houses; the powerful love story which it told, the wonderful humanness of its characters, and the excitement of the great racing scene, plus the superb acting of Mr. Ross, appealing to all classes and conditions of men, women and children.

Thomas W. Ross having been again secured as the star, "Checkers" is now offered by the All Star Picture Corporation, the producers of "Arizona," as a great six-part feature photoplay, staged under the personal direction of Augustus Thomas, America's foremost playwright and stage director. The scenario upon which the production is based was prepared by Lawrence McGill and Eustace Hale Ball. Supporting Mr. Ross is a great cast of Broadway favorites, and the production has been made without consideration of expense, hundreds of actors appearing in the great racing and betting ring scenes.

Lyric and Majestic Theaters

We are ashamed of ourselves for announcing such pictures as "Wrecked in Mid-Air," "The Message of the Sun Dial," "Love's Old Dream," "Through the Storm," "Hearts of Women," and "The Marriage of Figaro," in five-cent programs. It cheapens these subjects, which should be shown at ten or even twenty cents. But lots of people only want to spend the nickel, and by making them our price, we are getting them in and educating them up to our class of pictures.

You see an actual aeroplane wreck tonight in "Wrecked in Mid-Air." The picture is in three parts, and was mostly made around the Blériot monoplane works in France. Whether you are interested in aviation or not, you will be very glad you saw the picture, because it is tense, dramatic, thrilling.

You also see tonight two of the most charming girls appearing on the screen, Blanche Sweet and Gertrude Robinson, in "The Sentimental Sister." Biograph. And perhaps the Carnival of Roses at Pasadena will interest you too.

The other pictures mentioned above appear during the week. "The Message of the Sun Dial" comes tomorrow; it was made by Edison players with Mabel Trunnelle, at St. Augustine. "Love's Old Dream" comes Wednesday, the former featuring John Bunny and Flora Finch, and the latter Francis X. Bushman. "Hearts of Women," two-part Vitagraph, comes Thursday, and on Friday it will be our pleasure to show an exquisite production of "The Marriage of Figaro," made by Ambrosio at Seville, Spain.

JANESVILLE SHIVERS IN SUB-ZERO WEATHER

MERCURY HOVERS AROUND TEN DEGREES BELOW WHILE WIND BLOWS GALE.

MORE COLD PROMISED

Government Reports Predicts Continuance of Winter Temperatures. Interurban Crippled Sunday.

"How cold was it?" Janesville citizens have been asked, and have been asked again, an unnecessary number of times in the last few days when winter weather has been so cold, gripping the country with a thick blanket of snow and freezing outdoor life with its icy blasts. Sunday morning various reports showed that the mercury had dropped lower than the ten degrees below mark and farm residents who had courage to brave the bitter winds, claimed that many of the authentic thermometers registered as low as eighteen degrees Sunday morning. Early today the mercury hovered around four degrees below zero but a bright sun sent it climbing to five degrees above at noon.

According to Washington weather authorities, winter's backbone is a long way from being broken and service will be lessened Sunday when a high tension wire broke between Beloit and Rockford. The car leaving Beloit at ten o'clock Sunday night was stalled at the bridge and had to wait until after one o'clock and the passengers were forced to remain on the car during this time as the bridge is so narrow it is impossible to leave the car. The car leaving Beloit at ten o'clock Sunday night was stalled at the bridge and had to wait until after one o'clock and the passengers were forced to remain on the car during this time as the bridge is so narrow it is impossible to leave the car.

Enjoy Winter Sports.
While the majority of citizens expressed a decided disfavor against the belated storm, outdoor sports, delayed for so long a period this winter, had their innings the last few days. The cold weather has caused the people to abandon bugles and the merry jangle of the sleigh bells was heard for the first time this year. Numerous bobbing parties were given. Youngsters of the first time this year strapped on their skis and ski clubs in Beloit and Stoughton are preparing the slides for annual case tests. Skating was stopped because of the ice being so thin but when the ice should be in perfect condition and safe for this recreation.

The report from Washington shows that the winter need not fear of the threatened famine and the coal dealers will be able to declare better dividends before the month is over.

About fifteen men were at work this morning just above the upper ice house, clearing away the snow and marking the ice to make a road for the cutting which will start some time tomorrow. The cold weather of the past week has put the ice in excellent condition for the harvest. A large force of men will be required as soon as the real harvest begins as there is a great necessity for quick action in this work. The ice has frozen to a thickness of from six to fourteen inches and was strong enough to support a team of horses. Three teams of horses were at work on the scrapers. The first cutting will commence in the back bay just above the lower ice house. The two houses will be cleared first and then the force will be transferred to the upper house.

Cold to Continue.
The general distribution of atmospheric pressure over the North Atlantic ocean, said the weekly bulletin from Washington today, is such as to indicate temperatures below the normal for the week east of the Rocky mountains and temperatures near the seasonal average on the Pacific slope.

The weather will be generally fair during the first half of the week in the plains states, the great central valleys and the North Atlantic states. In the Gulf and south Atlantic states the weather will be overcast with probable rains along the Gulf and south Atlantic coasts until Wednesday.

The next disturbance of importance to cross the United States will appear on the North Pacific coast Tuesday, attended by general rain; it will prevail over the middle states about Thursday and the eastern states Friday or Saturday; this disturbance will be preceded by a general reaction of higher temperatures, and be attended by general rain in northern states and snow and rain in southern states, which will be followed by colder weather, which will make its appearance in the northwest Thursday.

HOSPITAL NOTES.

There are a great number of out-of-town patients at the hospital these days, the people of the surrounding towns taking advantage of the splendid facilities that are afforded in the local institution. This is a practical demonstration of the nature of the services that are rendered in our own hospital and is a worthy tribute to the work that is being carried on.

At H. Smiley of Bundy, Wis., is recovering from an operation and is reported as resting much easier. Mrs. Frank Dangelberg of Sharon is at the hospital, expecting to undergo an operation in the course of a few days.

The Great Majority.
Any approximate estimate of the number of persons who have died since the beginning of the human race is out of the question; but there is no doubt that their number far exceeds that of the present population of the world, as expressed in the saying, "to go over to the great majority." I. C. to die.

Melancholy.
Melancholy may be defined as a state of mind in which a man is so out of touch with his environment that life has lost its sweetness. William Oslar.

ROCK COUNTY MEN AT ROADS SCHOOL

Highway Commissioner C. E. Moore and Several Supervisors Attend Sessions at Madison.

County Highway Commissioner C. E. Moore went to Madison this morning to attend the sessions of the roads school which is being held this week under the direction of the Wisconsin highway commission. Mr. Moore will stay for the entire session which closes on Friday.

A number of the county men expected to attend parts of the convention. Supervisors B. D. Treadway of Beloit, H. H. Moseley, town of Beloit, and Thomas A. Steele, town of Union, members of the county board, will attend one day's sessions and Supervisors Keough, Clinton township, and Frank Bennett, Magnolia, are also planning to be present.

While at Madison, Mr. Moore and the members of the highway committee will inspect road machinery and will probably decide on the make of stone crushers which they will recommend for purchase for Rock county as its January meeting. According to Mr. Moore there will be the biggest exhibit of road machinery ever displayed at a Wisconsin roads school.

Large Attendance.
Madison, Feb. 9.—Between 300 and 400 men are expected to be present Wednesday and Thursday, the big days of the annual roads school of the Wisconsin highway commission, which opens in the assembly chamber this afternoon with an address by Gov. McGovern. The number is swelled by county board members seeking information and help in road road projects from the state aid law.

J. A. Hazelwood, chairman, will give an address this afternoon the purpose of the road school and justice R. D. Marshall of the supreme court Secretary W. O. Hotchkiss will speak on the necessity of a state system of road construction.

A FORMER RESIDENT DIES IN CALIFORNIA

J. A. Cunningham, Who Organized Janesville Clothing Company, Passes Away on Saturday.

Word was received here yesterday announcing the death at his home in Los Angeles, California, on Saturday last of J. A. Cunningham, who was a resident of Janesville.

For twenty-seven years Mr. Cunningham lived in this city, and in 1901, on the advice of his physicians that he seek a milder climate, he moved to Los Angeles with his wife and daughter, who still survive him there. He also leaves to mourn his loss, one son, Herbert J. Cunningham, who lives in Janesville.

Mr. Cunningham was born May 25, 1839, in North Spencer, Mass., coming to Janesville with his family in 1874. He first engaged in the shoe and boot business and in 1889 organized the Janesville Clothing company, which he managed up to the time of his leaving the city.

Funeral services were held this afternoon at his late home and were conducted by Dr. David Beaton, former pastor of the Congregational church here, of which Mr. Cunningham was for so many years a member.

Franklin Putnam.
The remains of Franklin Putnam arrived in this city Saturday.

Funeral services will be held from the Oak Hill church, Tuesday afternoon, at two o'clock. Rev. F. C. Hazen will officiate. Interment will be at Oak Hill cemetery.

Charles Ellis.
Word has been received in this city of the death of Charles Ellis, former superintendent of the Janesville Woolen Mills, who passed away at a sanitarium at Huron, Ontario, locomotor ataxia was the cause of his death. He was a member of the Janesville Elks' lodge, and his many friends in this city will learn with sorrow of his death.

William White.
William White, residing at 1020 Sharon street, passed away at his home shortly before twelve o'clock last night after a three months' illness. Death was due to heart failure.

Mr. White was born in May, 1840 at Vinetown, New York, and came to Wisconsin in 1844. He was united in marriage to Miss Laura Lindie of Monroe county, Michigan, May 2, 1865. Mrs. White died twice in 1890 and 1891.

Mr. White was employed as a gardener and was seventy three years of age. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Arthur Schumaker of Janesville, one grandson, Harry Caldwell of Rockford, and two nieces, Mrs. George Wilcox of Milton and Mrs. Walter Wilder, also of Milton. Funeral services will be held at the home on Saturday afternoon, Wednesday, at two o'clock, the Rev. J. C. Hazen officiating. Burial will be made in Oak Hill cemetery.

Meredith Charles Mosher.
Meredith Charles Mosher, aged two years, ten months, twenty-four days, died at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Mosher, of Janesville, Wednesday night at one-thirty o'clock. Burial will be made in Oak Hill cemetery.

Former Wisconsin Man Dies in Los Angeles
John R. Berryman, well known Wisconsin publisher, newspaper man and author, died Friday night at his residence in Los Angeles, Cal., after an illness of about six weeks.

Mr. Berryman was born in 1839, coming to Wisconsin about a year later. For a number of years he was owner and publisher of the "Dawson's" Wis., Republican, and the "Prairie State" of Chicago. He was a state law librarian of Wisconsin for thirty years. During that time he compiled the Wisconsin state statutes. He was author of "Insurance Law of the State of Wisconsin," owner and editor of "Sutherland on Damages," and editor of the "Wisconsin Bench and Bar."

Mr. Berryman was married to Mrs. Clara Maude Berryman, Clara S. Berryman, Philip C. Berryman, Mrs. D. J. Brady, and John R. Berryman, Jr.

YOUNG LADIES HOLD SUFFRAGETTE DANCE

Over Sixty Are Present at Tango Party in Terpsichorean Hall on Saturday Evening.

One of the prettiest parties of the season was held on Saturday evening at Terpsichorean hall, where over six young ladies of this city enjoyed the delights of an "Adams' dance."

The affair was in the nature of a tango party, and seldom has such an occasion proven so much of a success. The party was chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Matheson. Dancing was in order from seven-thirty until eleven-thirty.

The hall was very attractive, the decorations being noticeable even down to the clever programs which were furnished each young lady present. On the outside cover of the program there was a pretty winter scene, finished off in rich colors. The rich glow of the lights, which filled the room with a soft illumination, was most pleasing to the eye. Dozens of ladies with the famous "Sand Dance" and "Highland Fling."

There was so much interest shown Saturday evening that many are in favor of repeating the dance. The girls believe this form of suffrage party is something new, and as long as it proves interesting and attractive, there may be enough sentiment among the younger set to warrant several such pleasures during the remainder of the season.

The groups of girls were divided so that one was to accompany the tango to the party. It was exceedingly interesting to watch the girl couples ascend to the dance hall at the appointed hour for the opening dance.

A list of those who were present was as follows: Marion Matheson, Frances Granger, Margaret Jeffries, Jessica George, Hilda Woolf, Marjorie Van Kirk, Evelyn Welsh, Mildred Clark, Margaret Emma Austin, Renette Smith, Josephine Bliss, Margaret Powers, Evelyn Kavalage, Louise Nowlan, Alice Powers, Marion Sheridan, Marie Scardiff, Marie Powers, Grace Anselmi, Elsie Koch, Hazel Myer, Bessie Buell, Lorene Bowerman, Isabel McWay, Christina McWay, Buella Tarrant, Gladys Andrews, Helen Franklin, Ruth Granger, Phyllis Kelly, Edith Perkins, Virginia Dochadi, Helen Greene, Constance Allison, Hazel Baker and Elizabeth Keimow.

CANNOT LOSE OVERSHOE
Locked to Its Owner Beyond Possibility of Divorce or Even Separation.

The difficulty of securing a properly fitting pair of overshoes known to all. Likewise the humiliation of losing one's shoe in the street or other equally inconvenient place. It frequently happens that overshoes, which will not move in the same walk of life with another, notwithstanding the fact that the leather shoes will fit the owner equally well.

A difference in the shape in one pair or the other makes all the difference in the world in the character of the clinging friendship between the leather and the gum shoes, whose fates are so closely linked together.

The clip-catch retainer shown here with has been designed to prevent any parting of company between these two shoes.

CLIP CATCH FOR THE OVERSHOE.

Initiates. The retainer is a little device of spring metal and wire, which fits over the heel of the shoe and under the heel of the shoe. Bending around the heel it forms a horseshoe in shape, the two ends being secured by a wire passing in front of the heel and under the heel and holding the device in place securely. The rest of this invention is supplied with a clip catch, which secures the rubber and holds it firmly in place.

History of the Lemon.
The lemon has a clear history. Unknown to the Greeks and Romans, it was introduced into Spain by the Arabs in the twelfth century, and in 1494 was being cultivated in the Azores and shipped in large quantities to northern Europe.

MCGOVERN TO SPEAK TOMORROW EVENING

Local Politicians Interested in His Address To Be Given Before Twilight Club.

Governor P. E. McGovern will give an address tomorrow evening on the subject of "The High Cost of Living," before the Twilight club at its February meeting.

Local politicians are intensely interested in the governor's visit and are discussing its possible importance from a political standpoint. As the high tax question is at present threatening to disrupt the state the governor will probably have something to say on the situation and will probably be called upon to answer some questions. It is unlikely that he will go into the matter of candidacies for state offices or the senatorship race. In his address at Evansville he confined himself closely to the subject which included a comprehensive analysis of his market commission plan, one of his hobbies which the last legislature turned down.

The governor will arrive shortly after five o'clock tomorrow afternoon and will be met at the depot by a committee of his friends. He will leave on one of the late trains for Madison. John Cunningham, who is leader for the evening made arrangements for the governor's visit.

Mohammedans in London.
There are nearly 2,000 Mohammedans resident in London, the majority, of course, being natives of India, who are merchants or law students, though some are Britons and it is intended to erect a new and splendid mosque, modeled on that of Delhi, which will cost not less than $500,000.

What Astonished Canadian.

A Canadian paying his first visit to London was asked what he thought of it. "Well," he replied, "it is astonishing the number of people who have got a shine on their boots in the morning." He then explained that over on the other side landladies never brush boots, with the result that people of both sexes get into a habit of patronizing "shoe shine parlors" when they want their boots cleaned.

Harry Sewell was born in September, 1855, near Janesville, being one of a family of four sons. His father was a Methodist minister and the family moved to various towns in this state, every two or three years, until Harry Sewell, then a young man, settled in Oconomowoc, where he was united in marriage to Miss Ida Fyler of Berlin.

Fifteen years ago he came to Evansville and for the past four years has been clerk of the Central House, where he has won many friends.

He leaves to mourn his loss one son, George Sewell of Milwaukee; one daughter, Miss Emily Sewell of Janesville; three brothers, Robert of Milwaukee; Ellisworth B. of Topeka, Kansas; and William A., who died at the age of twenty-five years.

Funeral services were held from the Central House this afternoon at 2:30, Rev. Coon of the M. E. church officiating. Interment was in Maple Hill cemetery.

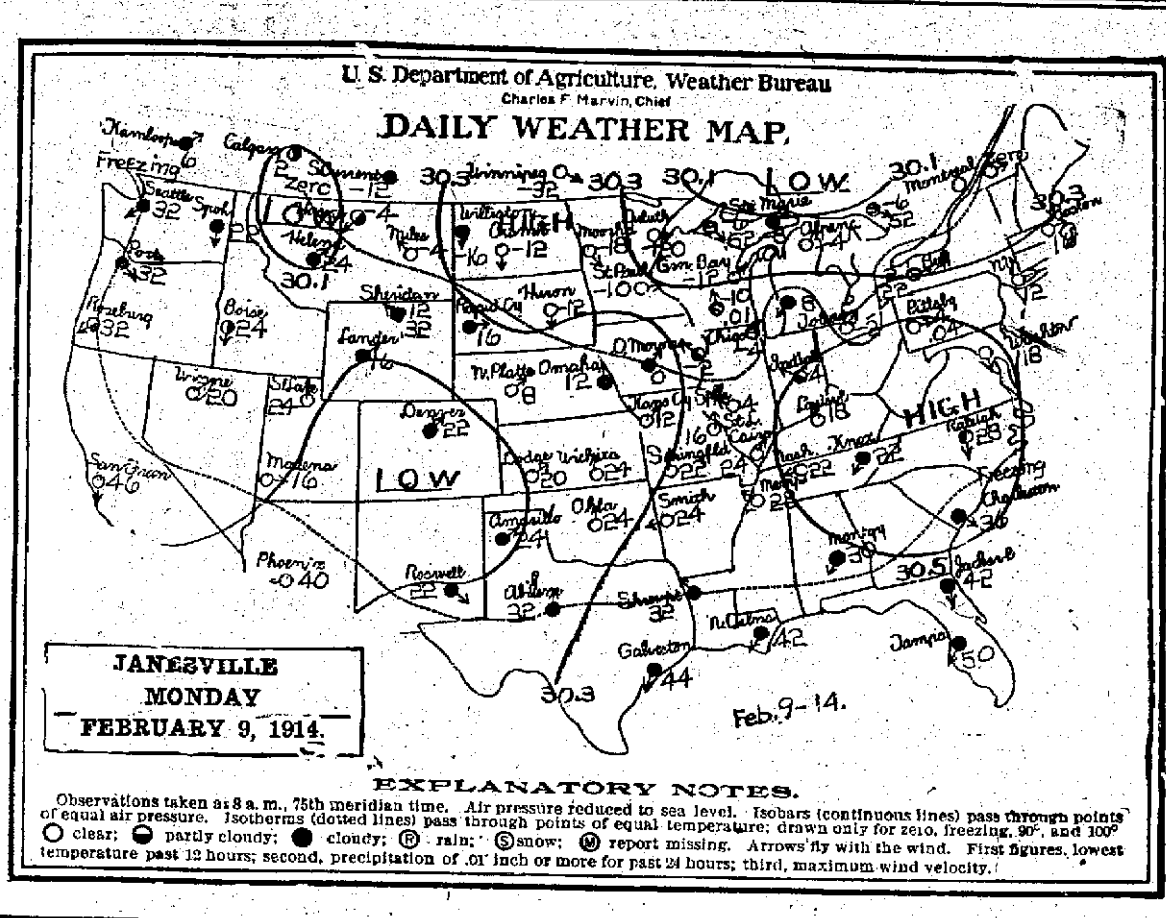

Present for the funeral: Robert Sewell of Milwaukee, brother of the deceased; George Sewell of Milwaukee, son of the deceased; and daughter, Miss Emily Sewell of Janesville.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

The area of high barometer that has been attended by such low temperatures in the central and northern states is now over the southern Appalachians, where it is attended by clear skies, and temperatures about freezing.

A barometric depression occupies eastern Canada, and a trough extends from it toward the southwest, where another barometric depression occupies the Plateau region. There has been a little snow in connection with these depressions, in the lake region, but generally fair weather prevails over the whole country.

It is still extremely cold in western Canada and on the northern plains.

SUFFRAGE QUESTION IS SIDE-STEPPED BY DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS

Women Now Debate As to What They Will Do Next—They Want Support and May Get It.

(By Associated Press.)

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—By a vote of 123 to 57 the house democratic caucus decided to sidestep the woman suffrage question. It adopted the Hellen resolution to the effect that woman suffrage is a state and not a federal question. The standing committee on woman suffrage asked for by the suffragists will not be created. The action of the house caucus follows on the heels of the turning down of the suffragists by President Wilson, who takes the position he cannot endorse suffrage because his party has not taken action in favor of it. It is impossible to view the attitude of the democratic party or suffragists in any other way than that they are hostile to it. They have sought to sidestep the issue, but their position is plain.

The next question is, what are the suffragists going to do about it? Are they going to cling to the illusive hope that they can obtain the subscription of the democratic party, or are they going to turn their attention to a party that is friendly to their cause?

The fate of the proposed woman suffrage amendment to the constitution is now up to the women voters of the west. The congressional union will turn to the women of the various states, through the national council of women voters, for support in their demand for the ballot as a constitutional right. This action together with the concentration of effort upon the main suffrage bill, according to Miss Alice Paul, chairman, will mean a more determined fight than ever.

We know now definitely just where the leaders of the democratic party stand, said Mrs. Essie Hardy Stubbs, who, in addition to being one of the leaders in the congressional union, is also an active worker in the national council of women voters, being in charge of the publicity of both organizations.

There are now four million voting women in the west," she continued.

"We hope to put the leaders of the political power against the solid south, which is responsible for the continued setbacks we have received. The national council of women voters is especially well fitted to make this appeal to the women of the west to make a united stand."

"Our campaigns in these western states has already begun. The decisive action of the democratic party has only spurred us to greater efforts and once the women of the north, northwest and southwest are thoroughly aroused to the situation, I am sure they will see the importance of making a united effort in behalf of the women's movement."

"We are going to down the democratic candidates everywhere, if we can. After turning down woman suffrage the Wilson administration is attempting to throttle suffrage agitation in the Washington government departments."

Suffrage advocates who are on the federal classified civil service rolls have been placed on the "pernicious political activity" basis, along with the workers of the big political parties, by the civil service commission. Employees affiliated with the suffrage organizations have been warned that they would be liable to removal from office under the civil service laws if they participated in political activity either as officers of the association or through the exercise of influence as members.

TRUTH CRUSHED TO EARTH

By FANNY ELLISON.

"It's queer," said the little stenographer, "but men haven't the least instinct of honor. That is true, at least, so far as this office force is concerned. I mean the men aren't truthful!"

"Excepting bookkeepers," supplemented the bookkeeper.

"Oh, yes, I didn't include bookkeepers—or office boys or clerks. They don't count one way or the other. I had reference to Mr. Gray and his type."

"Mr. Gray had a long-distance telephone call from New York today. I was sitting waiting for him, so I overheard what he said. The man at the other end was mad about something and Mr. Gray was trying to pacify him."

"You know," he said to the man in New York, "how clerical errors will creep into letters and get overlooked. I'm sorry I didn't read over that letter more carefully. I'll see that it doesn't happen again!"

"Well, I was trembling in my shoes, thinking it was some big mistake I'd made in writing a letter, but when Mr. Gray hung up the receiver he smiled at me."

"My," he said, "that man has a bad disposition. I promised to meet him in New York last night and I forgot it entirely. But I made him think it was only a typographical error in the date I gave him in my letter—so it'll be all right for me to meet him next week." And he never once thought about his having put the blame for his mistake on my innocent shoulders!

"But I'm not the only one. There's poor Mr. Elliot. That man worked nights for two solid weeks getting that new card index system into shape, and when he got it finished he was as proud of it as a peacock. I didn't blame him a bit—for you know what a really good thing that new index system is going to be."

"But Mr. Gray, who fully appreciates the worth of it, didn't hesitate to tell the president, right in my very presence, that he'd had that little system in mind for some time—and with Elliot's help he'd got it up! Talked just as though Mr. Elliot had done the rough work under his supervision, when, in fact, Mr. Elliot was the whole show from beginning to end! Actually it made me angry."

"Then today Mr. Gray deliberately told Billy to take a letter down to the printer's and to wait for an answer. But when Billy didn't get back until five o'clock and it was time for him to go home Mr. Gray wanted another errand run—so what did he do

"Had a Long-Distance Telephone Call."

but say that he had not told Billy to waste all the afternoon at the printer's, and, therefore, Billy would have to run that other errand before he left! And poor Billy didn't dare say anything."

"But what's your own specific particular trouble today that calls forth all these harrowing reminiscences?" asked the bookkeeper.

"Well—the little stenographer smiled in spite of herself—'since you're so anxious to hear I'll skip the other offenses on my list and proceed to the gravest of the lot.'"

"Here I've been sitting over my typewriting machine for hours creating a nice form letter that will make our customers sit up and take notice. It hits just the right angle between politeness and friendliness. It is very respectful, and yet it doesn't hesitate to say in good, clear English that we know a lot more about our line than any one else does—and that we are merely waiting for a chance to impart our knowledge to others."

"I'm not ashamed to acknowledge it is the best form letter that has been put together in this office in a long while!"

"Well, what do you think? Mr. Gray, after examining it—and telling me to send it out to our best customers—kept a copy on his desk, and when our publicity specialist came in he handed it to the specialist, saying: 'What do you think of this letter I'm getting out?' with emphasis on the 'I'! I'd like to—"

"Yes, why don't you punch his head?" sympathized the bookkeeper.—Chicago Daily News.

CENTRAL AMERICAN STATES THREATEN FURTHER REVOLTS

Signs of Unrest Now Apparent Will Tax Diplomatic Policy of Present Administration.

(Special to this Gazette.)

(By Winfield Jones.)

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—The meddlesome foreign policy of the Wilson administration and Secretary Bryan's neglect of his duties for the Central American states, according to reports that are now reaching Washington, no less than three revolutions are said to be brewing in the neighborhood of the Panama Canal.

Political unrest centering in the republic of Salvador threatens to precipitate revolutionary outbreaks in that country, Nicaragua and Honduras, according to these reports.

The President of Honduras, Carlos Melendez, is said to be endeavoring to establish a dictatorship and to hold the presidency in violation of the Salvadoran constitution. Many of his political advisers have been thrown into prison or sent into exile. The bad state of the Salvadoran finances and the increased taxes, levied to build up the government's resources, have added to the dissatisfaction. A revolt is likely at any moment say the reports.

Nicaraguan Situation. Trouble in Nicaragua has been threatened for a long time. Under the Taft administration the conservative government of President Diaz was installed in power through the revolution that drove Zelaya from the country. The cabinet consisted of a second revolution led by General Luis Mena, but American marines seized the railroad that runs across Nicaragua, drove Mena from the country and expelled the government. Democrats in the United States senate, headed by Senator Bacon, chairman of the committee on foreign relations, then attacked the policy of the state department in sending marines into Nicaragua to oust Diaz. The Nicaraguan liberals therefore, entertained high hopes that the democratic administration would support their cause and permit them to overthrow the conservative government.

Greatly to their surprise Mr. Bryan's first step as Secretary of State, was to agree to the maintenance of the marine guard at the American legation in the Nicaraguan capital, and to give his support to a treaty establishing an American protectorate over Nicaragua. Since then the Nicaraguan liberals have been busy sowing seeds of discontent, and reports indicate that a widespread revolution against the government will break out at the first sign of trouble in Salvador.

Other Central States. Conditions in Honduras are little better than in the other two countries. The ambitions of several leaders to gain control of the country would undoubtedly lead to outbreaks. Comparatively little consideration has been given in Washington to the situation in Salvador, Nicaragua being considered a "dead spot." Just at this time in Central America, it seems, however, that Manuel Araujo, president of Salvador prior to Melendez, entertained the ambition of becoming dictator of the country. When he came into the presidency, Salvador was one of the most prosperous countries in Central America. The people are thrifty by nature, most of them are land owners, and the political and social structure of the country is naturally more healthy and sound than in some of the other republics. President Araujo began his scheming by purchasing enormous quantities of arms and ammunition. The ample financial reserves of the government were soon depleted, and the banks of the country ran into a serious condition. Araujo was killed eighteen months after assuming the presidency and Charles Melendez succeeded him.

Melendez as Dictator. Melendez has been known as a quiet and unambitious man, but since he has been president he has come to listen to the control of advisors who insist that the salvation of Salvador lies in a dictatorship under his rule. He has set out in the typical Central American manner to establish the dictatorship. Taxes have been raised until the people are staggering under the burden. All who show antagonism to Melendez's ambitions are exiled or thrown into prison. The people are ripe for revolt and the political refugees are organizing them.

Such an outbreak as seems imminent in Central America would present a difficult problem for Mr. Bryan. The government of Nicaragua could not maintain itself without the support of the United States.

How to Save Your Eyes

Try this Free Prescription.

Do your eyes give you trouble? Do you already wear eyeglasses or spectacles? Thousands of people wear these "windows" who might easily dispense with them. You may be one of these, and it is your duty to save your eyes before it is too late. The eyes are neglected more than any other organ of the entire body. After you finish your day's work you sit down and rest your muscles, but how about your eyes? Do you rest them? You know you do not. You read or do something else that keeps your eyes busy; you work your eyes until you go to bed. That is why so many have strained eyes and finally other eye troubles that threaten partial or total blindness. Eyeglasses are merely crutches; they never cure. This free prescription, which has benefited the eyes of so many, may work equal wonders for you. Use it a short time. Would you like your eye troubles to disappear as if by magic? Try this prescription. Go to the nearest wideawake drug store and get a bottle of Optona tablets; fill a two-ounce bottle with warm water, drop in one tablet and allow it to thoroughly dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. Just note how quickly your eyes clear up and how soon the inflammation will disappear. Don't be afraid to use it; it is absolutely harmless. Many who are now blind might have saved their eyes had they started to care for them in time. This is a simple treatment, but marvelously effective in multitudes of cases. Now that you have been warned don't delay a day, but do what you can to save your eyes and you are likely to thank us as long as you live for publishing this prescription. Advertisement.

out the support of the United States, and Mr. Bryan would undoubtedly be forced to send marines there despite the protests of Senator Bacon. There are at present 80 marines in Managua acting as a legion guard, but it is realized that these marines are important more as a visible indication of the moral support which the United States is giving the Diaz government than as a guard for the protection of the American Minister.

Opposition to Treaty. Liberal agitators have been at work in Washington creating sentiment among senators against the proposed Nicaraguan treaty, and one influential member of the committee on foreign relations says that the treaty has no chance of ratification.

European creditors of the Central American republics are becoming impatient that their claims be satisfied and the state department now has an expert engaged in a study of Nicaraguan foreign debt to determine what method of settlement is available. The prospect of a revolution in three of these republics at once is greatly disturbing Washington.

Two Meals a Day Sufficient. Though reticent on many matters, the British officers just released from a German fortress agreed in one matter. They found two meals a day sufficient. In England people are sometimes addicted to five—breakfast, lunch, tea, dinner and supper. The continental fashion is a snack for morning coffee, a midday meal and an evening meal. But when the great army of Xerxes was marching through Asia Minor, and city by city had to provide food for the day, the people thanked God that Xerxes and his army ate but once a day.

A HAT PIN SUBSTITUTE

The Dangers of the Millinery Still Are Entirely Overcome.

The dangers of the hat pin, which promises to be legislated out of use at an early day, are entirely overcome by the invention shown in the accompanying illustration. It is a simple and inexpensive attachment to be made permanently to each hat by which it may be securely held on the head, but without any protruding points or any points whatever. A slightly coiled spring slides through a sheath secured to the hat, one in each side and penetrating the brim. These are partially withdrawn as the hat is being adjusted and when it is placed the springs are pushed through the sheaths and enter the hair at the back of the head. The springs are entirely invisible and when the pins are thrust through the sheaths there is nothing but their ornamental heads, which resemble the ordinary hat pin in appearance. The invention is that of a woman.

MAN-MADE RELIGION CANNOT EXIST LONG

REV. GEORGE E. PARISOE TELLS OF GOD'S REAL PRESENCE SUNDAY MORNING.

GIVES OPENING SERMON

As Pastor of First Presbyterian Church of This City—Asks for Friendly Disagreement.

"The text which I have taken for my opening sermon as pastor in this church, is found in the 33d chapter of Exodus, and the 14th verse, 'My Presence shall go with thee, and I shall give thee rest,' said the Rev. George E. Parisoe in his morning sermon at the Presbyterian church.

This beautiful thought was God's assurance to Moses when Moses faced an unknown world of responsibilities. Moses and his people had left their previous dwelling place behind, and were looking into an unknown future. They had covered familiar ground, but were stranded. Moses prayed from the edge of the wilderness to God, and said, 'Show me Thy way, that I have found grace in Thy sight,' and God answered, saying, 'My Presence shall go with thee, and I shall give thee rest.'

"Moses was on the eve of a great and new departure. It was not going to take him weeks of service, toil, traveling and care, but it was to take him years and years of traveling, toil, and service, to fulfill his purposes. God assured Moses that he was an everlasting friend with him on the battlefield and as leader of the people.

"God said this church was to be a sympathetic and Godly church. The whole meaning of Christianity is to assure man of the presence of God. If we can bring down the power of the cross, into our lives, then we can ascertain our place in the church. God's presence is our greatest gift from Him. The trouble with people today, is they are lost. They know no direction. 'I came to you as an unknown world, and not from out of the wilderness.' People lose the presence of God before they know who He really is.

"Religion is not self-made, or made by man. Religion grows or dies. When we speak of man-made religion we know it does not and cannot live. We must seek God's presence and abide in that presence. If we do that, God will answer, 'Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world.'

"In our churches today, there is a new faith," said the speaker. "The old days of protection are going, if not already gone. So in this new night, we can measure our faith, by noting how much of our lives we are turning over to the Master. We need not abandon our father's faith, nor make a new religion for the future, but rather, let us have the problem solved."

"A dull notion inspires people, that they need rest. My people, if we believe in the old truth, and abide by His presence, God's love and power shall bring us rest, not rest after toil, but rest in the presence of God. God rests, even at work.

"My good people, I want to say to you, in closing, that at any time, we must disagree, let that disagreement be with Christian fellowship. Be Christians, and remember God's presence is always with you, in all undertakings. It is our purpose, to love the cross sincerely, that we are bound not to be taken from it. As Moses stood before the new world, asking God for mercy, and thanksgiving, let us face Him with the hope that His presence shall go with us, and give us rest."

Strong Evening Address.

Behind the denominational differences which divide Christian people, there is a church universal on which all Christians are members, and whose strength is the harmony and unity in the service of the Master, declared the Rev. Parisoe in his evening sermon Sunday.

The speaker deplored the fact that the strength of the church which ought to be directed as a unit against some common foe, is too often divided by internal discords and strifes between one Christian or one group of Christians and another. "The effect of such dissensions might readily be seen," said Mr. Parisoe, in one particular matter which was enough for illustration, the controversies over religious education. As a result of these differences we have no religious training in our public schools from the kindergarten through the high school, or even in our colleges and universities. What little instruction the children receive is for a brief two or three minutes a week in the Sunday school.

"It is the place of the home, you say, to instruct in these matters? Then answer this question: 'Do you have family worship?' Generally speaking, I say the homes of Americans are a failure, and the problem is brought back to the church.

"But back of the differences which appear on the surface of Christian denominations, there is the church of the living Christ, a universal church in which every creed and every man need only to refer to your hymnals to secure an evidence of this unity. There you will find 'Lead Kindly Light,' written by a cardinal in the Roman Catholic church; 'From Greenland's Joy Mountains,' written by a young Anglican rector, and other equally appealing and as widely known hymns written by men of all sorts of beliefs.

"Twenty-five years ago you might have said, 'I am a Calvinist,' but today the boundaries are being torn away, and we are nearer to a common church embracing the whole world of Christians. But we have our different kinds of government. Just as you have the republican, the democratic, the socialist ideas in politics, so you have the different plans of church organization. Of course, Presbyterians are proud of the doctrines of Calvinism, and we consider it the greatest organization we have. We point to the constitution of the United States and the constitution of Geneva. The day is coming and it is nearly here when we will not look on Christ as a presbyter, but as a common brother, and Christianity will be a common brotherhood for all mankind. The trouble with us, and the reason why preachers talk to empty pews, is that people don't think you are sincere."

Rev. Parisoe closed with the appeal to Christians to forget that they are Methodists, or Presbyterians, or whatever denomination, and be real Christians, true to the concept of Christ which is embodied in brotherly love.

WOMEN INCORPORATE COMPANY TO SUPERVISE AMUSEMENTS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Philadelphia, Feb. 9.—A score or more prominent society women today applied for a state charter to incorporate as a private "company" to supervise "amusement" and "healthful amusements." The "company," which is a sociological experiment, is headed by Mrs. Louis C. Madella, Mrs. Henry C. Boyer, and Mrs. William A. Platt. The incorporators include Edith E. Smith, J. Franklin McCadden, W. Hinkle Smith, and Mrs. Boyer. The "company" plans to rent halls where the "new" dances, moving pictures, musicals, amateur theatricals, and other forms of amusement may be enjoyed under the proper supervision and supervision of the "company" is to be known as the People's Recreation Company. Attendance at the amusements is free.

is the canal of life but it becomes a sewer if clogged up. All life consists of building up and tearing down and just in the same manner that the blood carries to the various parts of the body the food that the cells need for building up, so it is compelled to carry away the waste material that's torn down. These waste materials are poisonous and destroy us unless the liver and kidneys are stimulated into refreshed and vigorous life.

NO SECOND CHANCE FOR BEING SAVED STATES LECTURER

Bible Scholar W. J. McLaughlin Admits Possibility of Viewing Matter From Several Ways.

"Two Salvations, But No Second Chance," was the subject of the I. B. S. A. Bible lecture delivered yesterday afternoon in the "Lions" Theatre by W. J. McLaughlin of Oregon.

The speaker was emphatic in his declarations against a second chance, though he admitted the possibility of religious education. As a result of these differences we have no religious training in our public schools from the kindergarten through the high school, or even in our colleges and universities. What little instruction the children receive is for a brief two or three minutes a week in the Sunday school.

"It is the place of the home, you say, to instruct in these matters? Then answer this question: 'Do you have family worship?' Generally speaking, I say the homes of Americans are a failure, and the problem is brought back to the church.

"But back of the differences which appear on the surface of Christian denominations, there is the church of the living Christ, a universal church in which every creed and every man need only to refer to your hymnals to secure an evidence of this unity. There you will find 'Lead Kindly Light,' written by a cardinal in the Roman Catholic church; 'From Greenland's Joy Mountains,' written by a young Anglican rector, and other equally appealing and as widely known hymns written by men of all sorts of beliefs.

"Twenty-five years ago you might have said, 'I am a Calvinist,' but today the boundaries are being torn away, and we are nearer to a common church embracing the whole world of Christians. But we have our different kinds of government. Just as you have the republican, the democratic, the socialist ideas in politics, so you have the different plans of church organization. Of course, Presbyterians are proud of the doctrines of Calvinism, and we consider it the greatest organization we have. We point to the constitution of the United States and the constitution of Geneva. The day is coming and it is nearly here when we will not look on Christ as a presbyter, but as a common brother, and Christianity will be a common brotherhood for all mankind. The trouble with us, and the reason why preachers talk to empty pews, is that people don't think you are sincere."

What is a Chance?

A chance for salvation, according to the lecturer, implies a chance of attaining perfect life, a life unmarred by death and its concomitants, a life therefore which will never end. Such a life was originally bestowed upon the human race, but the father of the race by sin brought upon himself and consequently upon his posterity the curse of death; for "the wages of sin is death." Death has reigned ever since, and would continue until the race is extinct, were it not that Christ became a man like Adam, to satisfy the claims of justice against Adam and his offspring. "That he by the grace of God should taste death for every man." (Heb. 2:9.) It follows therefore that every man should have a chance to benefit by the provision made for his redemption from sin and death. Those who would cut off the poor heathen at home and abroad without even an opportunity of hearing and accepting the salvation provided for them, are most heartless and unmerciful. Such are proving themselves quite unworthy of the favor of God.

The audience seemed quite agreeable to be thought that God would in justice inform all His creatures of His Plan of Redemption by which they might obtain Eternal Life, and that to cut them off forever without letting them know anything about their privileges in Christ would show either sad neglect or lack of interest on the part of the Great Creator. God's love, the speaker explained, has provided a fair chance for every one. The Lord said, "I will draw all men unto Me," again we read, "That was the True Light, which lighteth every man that cometh into the world." (John 1:9.) Every man will get the light. Some have it now, and they consecrate themselves unto the Lord and are begotten of the Holy Spirit, enabling them to see and appreciate the Plan of God and His spiritual promises to the church. All others, whether in heathendom or bewildered by the conflicting creeds of Christendom, will receive that True Light in all its fullness of understanding when the mists have rolled away. During the thousand year Resurrection time, when Satan is bound, "they shall teach no more every man his neighbor, saying, know the Lord, for they shall know Me, from the least of them unto the greatest of them."

Two Salvations Provided.

The speaker endeavored to point out that the Scriptures reveal two salvations, entirely separate and distinct, the one for the church and the other for the world. He thought that it would be difficult in our day and time to find any one so narrow-minded as to believe that the one who is saved, while the other is perishing, is the only way of mankind, good, bad and indifferent, will be heartlessly consigned to eternal torture. Those who study their Bibles are coming to see that while the church will be rewarded with a place in the Heavenly realm with a Lord, there will be a salvation provided for all who will, in Paradise, the earth brought to full beauty of perfection. The great salvation pertaining to the church, every man may say, "begin to be spoken by our Lord Jesus Christ, His First Advent. All therefore who lived before that time, together with all since who are not of the church, will be saved after the close of this age, be granted a chance for eternal life on earth.

The lecturer presented a most beautiful picture of paradise, exclaiming that the Garden of Eden was a little more than a dream, and that it might be considered a scene of what the whole earth will be when perfected; for they shall say, "This land that was desolate, is become like the Garden of Eden." (Isaiah 35:35.) "Every man shall sit under his vine and fig tree," and "the Lord shall wipe away all tears from their eyes." In conclusion, the speaker appealed to his hearers not to be lax, thinking that if they sit in this life, they will get another chance. He said that every wilful sin must be punished, that in the world's Judgment Day some will receive few stripes and some many. Those who are getting their full measure of stripes never have another. It is wise therefore to come into full relationship with the Heavenly Father as soon as possible. Understanding his wonderful love, we should feel all the more like drawing near to Him. It is the great misrepresentation of His character that have driven the masses away from God in fear.

But Some of Them Don't.

A self-made man ought to have too much sense to boast about it in the presence of his wife.—Toledo Blade.

Schlitz in Brown Bottles does not have that disagreeable taste

so often found in beer in light bottles. We reprint below an extract from an opinion rendered by another famous scientist:

"Bottles of strong glass should be selected. They should never be of colorless glass, inasmuch as through the influence of light the beer will not only take on a disagreeable odor and taste, but will also become turbid." (Lintner.)

Schlitz The Beer That Made Milwaukee Famous

MILTON JUNCTION

Milton Junction, Feb. 7.—Mrs. Margaret Owen spent yesterday in Milwaukee.

While August Schmidt was helping his children out of the buggy at the school house Friday morning, he was frightened and started toward Milton. Near the creamery the wheels became interlocked with another rig, and so the team was forced to stop. As help came to their assistance at once, little damage was done and no one was injured.

Miss Dorothy Davis is spending the week at Albion.

The members of the B. G. Club enjoyed a very pleasant evening at the home of Miss Edna Davy last night.

Miss Winifred Goodrich, who is attending the University of Wisconsin and Mrs. Roy Kidder of Boston, Mass., were among the out-of-town members present. Miss Very Smith of Denver, Colo., and Miss Dora Butts were the invited guests.

Pleasant reminiscences of the first meetings of the club were discussed and enjoyed. Music and stunts were also a feature of the evening's entertainment. At the close of the evening a fairly two course luncheon was served by Mrs. E. B. Davy.

The All Four Club met with Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Hull Friday night.

Waiter Stockman attended the dance given for the students of the Janesville Business College.

Ray Burdick attended and sang at a musical at Albion Thursday night.

ORFORDVILLE

Orfordville, Feb. 7.—Mrs. K. N. Grunhard left Friday for a visit with her daughter, of Zumbrota, Minn.

F. E. Purdy shipped three of his fine Poland China hogs by express to parties at Caledonia, Ill., on Saturday morning.

Members of the town of Newark sold to B. J. Taylor, the local livestock buyer, a drove of 39 May pigs on Friday, that brought him the tidy little sum of one thousand and two dollars.

After following him for the greater part of the day on Friday, Deputy Sheriff Wesley Jones overlooked and apprehended the supposedly "crazy" tramp, who had been frightening women and children of the neighborhood, a mile or two east of the village. The fellow must have waited nearly fifteen miles in the face of the storm, for when overtaken he was nearer Brodhead than the place where he had been seen in the morning. He was arraigned before Justice Taylor on a charge of vagrancy and sentenced to serve twenty days in the county jail, under the commitment law.

Misses Pearl Gaarder and Clara Truon entertained the Needlecraft Society at their home on Saturday afternoon.

HAVE YOU LOST SOMETHING?

Don't Consider It As Lost Until You Have Tried A GAZETTE WANT AD.

There is no reason why you should not have the same pleasant experience as the young man who inserted the ad below:

LOST—In second or third ward Tuesday morning, gent's stick pin with set. Finder please return to Gazette office. 25-2-8-31.

The Pin was returned the second day the ad appeared.

It is needless to say that the young man was in no optimistic frame of mind when he decided to try a want ad to recover the lost pin. It had snowed before he discovered the pin was gone and for this reason he felt that it was very unlikely the pin would be found for some time. However, GAZETTE WANT ADS bring results under all conditions, regardless how unfavorable they may be.

FOR SALE OR RENT—10-room house, 453 No. Washington street. New phone 910 White. 50-1-23-41.

Your car sell your house or furniture through a want ad. If you are looking for help of any kind, read the Want Ads.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Daily Gazette, Feb. 9, 1874, J. H. Balch starts for Mauston, Juneau county, where he expects to engage in bookkeeping for a lumber company. Rev. J. P. Bates, pastor of the Baptist church, held his congregation for a few minutes after regular services yesterday and talked finances to them so effectively that they subscribed $700, which together with the regular income is sufficient to pay off the current expenses and arrears. Col. C. W. McHenry died this morning after a protracted illness which resulted in a softening of the brain. His death, though not sudden was unexpected and will be received with surprise by his many friends in this city. One of the saddest cases that we have been called upon to record is the fatality which has attended the members of the Philo Cutts family in the town of Janesville. Since Saturday, three of his children have died of the measles and three are now prostrated with the same disease. Christ church on Saturday night, elected C. L. Martin, H. D. McKinney, H. A. Doty and Wm. Rucker as delegates to the convention which is to elect a bishop on the 11th of the month. A house belonging to E. Carral in that part of the town of Rock known as "Happy Hollow" was destroyed by fire last night. A valuable span of horses and a cutter were stolen at Milton Junction last night.

VERY GENEROUS. Waitor—Haven't you forgotten something, sir? Customer—(grumpily) If I have, you may keep it for your honesty. Waitor—Thank you, sir. You left this pocket-book on your chair. It probably slipped from your pocket.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

KNOWING EXACTLY WHAT ONE WANTS.

THE shopper who knows exactly what she wants and knows, moreover, enough to state it accurately the first time, must be a great joy to the clerk, for there are so many women who do not do this, and they use up so much of her time and energy.

While waiting for my change at the drapery counter the other day I witnessed the following little scene:

Shopper: "I want some curtain scrim with a little yellow in it."
Clerk, pulling down one of the big rolls of cloth: "Something like this?"
Shopper: "Oh no. I want pure white, not cream."

Clerk, after tugging down another roll: "Here is something very pretty in white."
Shopper: "Yes, that's pretty, but I didn't want a yellow stripe. I wanted a figure."

Clerk, after climbing up and reaching far above her head and procuring, with considerable effort another roll: "How do you like this?"

Shopper, turning up her nose: "Oh, those big figures are hideous. I want something in a small figure."

Clerk, producing another roll: "Here's a very pretty one in a small figure."

Shopper: "Yes, that isn't bad. But I don't want rosebuds. I have one room with roses and I want something different for this one. Haven't you anything in a small conventional design?"

Clerk, wearily produces two more rolls; customer examines them both critically, then asks: "What did you say the price was?"

The clerk hadn't said, because she hadn't been asked, but she announced that it is fifty cents.

Shopper: "And haven't you anything less than that? J's has very much that sort of thing for thirty-five."

Clerk patiently moves down to that part of the counter where the thirty-five-cent draperies are kept and, being now armed with a knowledge of exactly what the customer wants, picks out three rolls which answer that description.

Now, just consider the tugging about of heavy rolls of cloth which would have been saved to the shop girl and the time that would have been saved to both of them if the customer had said at once, "Will you please show me something for about thirty-five cents, in pure white curtain scrim with a yellow border, in some small conventional figure other than rosebuds, as her reference to J's goods provided, and there was no reason on earth why she couldn't have asked for what she wanted in the first place. That is, no reason except mental laziness.

We all know that the shop girl's life is none too easy. If we have any heart within us we sometimes pity her when we see her looking dragged and weary after a trying day.

Here is a chance to translate our sympathy into help by finding out just what we want and asking for it instead of forcing her to discover it by a lengthy and difficult process of elimination.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

KNOWLEDGE being to be had only by visible and certain truth, error is not a fault of our knowledge, but a mistake of our judgment, giving assent to that which is not true. —Locke.

A DIET OF ONIONS.

This much abused vegetable, which cannot conceal its presence because of its odoriferousness, is one of our most valuable vegetables. Nature provides for her children by sending an abundance of these little tender green stalks to us early in the spring, and in the fall stocks our cellars with them for the winter using. There is no salad, except perhaps a fruit, that is not improved by the appetizing, zest of a bit of onion or onion juice.

When the appetite becomes keener in the cold wintry days, care must be taken not to over-eat. If onions are served twice a week at least the system is in good tone to withstand any drain of disease or extra work, for they are valuable scavengers in the system.

A disordered system will result in a cold, which is often directly caused by over-eating. We cannot expect the department of the interior to go on overworking year in and year out. If we cut our food in half and multiply our exercise by two in the open air, we would have less of colds, grip and pneumonia.

Onions With Cheese.—This is a dish especially good for a cold night supper. Cook sufficient onions for the number to partake; drain them and place a layer of the cooked onion in a buttered baking dish, pour over a half cup of rich white sauce, sprinkle generously with cheese, and repeat with another layer of the onions, white sauce and cheese. Put into the oven and serve when well heated through.

Onions Stuffed With Sausage.—This is a most elegant dish, which may be used for company. Take the mild Spanish or Bermuda onion, a half dozen or more, peel and parboil until tender enough to scoop out a center; chop the part taken out and mix with well seasoned sausage, and fill the centers. Make a sauce of chicken stock, if you have it, if not use butter and water. Put the onions into a baking dish and bake, basting occasionally until thoroughly tender. Sprinkle with buttered crumbs, and when they are brown serve from the baking dish.

Stuffed Tomatoes.—Tomatoes stuffed with chopped onion and cucumber, seasoned well and mixed with French dressing, a little chopped parsley added, is a most appetizing salad. Serve each tomato on a leaf of lettuce or set in a nest of blanched head lettuce.

MILLINERY BRANCH IS POPULAR STUDY

Study at Evening Industrial School Proves Most Interesting of Students.—New Class Tuesday.

The millinery class of the local industrial school has proved itself to be one of the best courses in the list of classes, according to Prof. C. F. Hill.

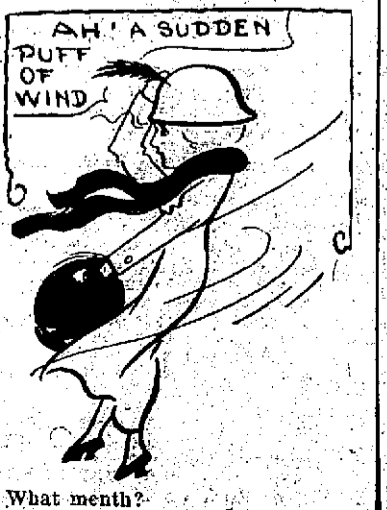

An enthusiastic class of twenty-five students has recently completed the winter course, and on next Tuesday evening, Miss Maude Inman, instructor, plans to start the spring millinery class to last through the remainder of the year.

It will be impossible for the students to make up new spring hats as early as Tuesday, because there are no spring styles or shapes on the market as yet. To keep the girls at work in the meantime, Miss Inman will start them at sewing up braids, making frames, tying knots and remodeling last season's hats.

This additional work will comprise the next five weeks, or ten lessons, and is preparatory to the making of the new spring hat course.

Debate Thursday.
Prof. Shafter plans a most interesting debate at his public speaking class, which is connected with the night school. This debate will be staged on next Thursday evening, and the question reads as follows: Resolved, that the profit sharing plan recently adopted by the Ford Motor company is unsound in business principle.

The public is invited to attend this debate, which will be held in the high school building. The question is most vital in modern day business life and some really interesting facts will be presented. The event will take place promptly at eight o'clock.

Women Worth While

MRS. ALBERT B. FALL.

(By Selene Armstrong Harmon.)
"MISS EMMA," said a Texas pickaninny to Mrs. Albert B. Fall, wife of Senator Fall of Three Rivers, New Mexico, "whut mek you do las dis times?" And placing her hands at her hips, the small negro girl gave what was a good imitation of a weary sigh.

"I didn't know I ever did that," replied "Miss Emma," much amused, "but if I do, it must be because I'm tired."

"I didn't know you've ever tried," said "Miss Emma," was the pickaninny's retort. "I ain't never seed yu doin' nuthin' yit."

"And so," adds Mrs. Fall, "the days go by. I wonder if all women keep as busy doing little things."

Probably few women do. Certainly there are not many women in official life in Washington who during a season of teas, bridges, afternoon receptions and dinner parties, find time for the hundred and one little acts of personal service that fill a life of a woman. She is one of those old-fashioned creatures whose life is a round of gentle, hidden charities, and of little, hidden services to those she loves. She exists in and for her family circle, which, it is needless to say, returns this devotion to her.

Senator and Mrs. Fall have three daughters, one of whom, Joetta Adair Fall, is unmarried and among the most beautiful young girls in the official debutante set at the capital. The others are Mrs. C. C. Chase of Cananea, Mexico, and Mrs. Mahlon Overhart of Pueblo, Colorado. They have also a son who lives in the West. Last season was probably the happiest Mrs. Fall has spent in Washington. She and Senator Fall took the big house former Secretary of War and Mrs. Stimson had occupied, and had all their children, and one toddling granddaughter with them for the winter.

Mrs. Fall was born in Clarksville, Texas, the daughter of Simpson H. Morgan, a member of the Confederate congress and a pioneer in the development of the state. At the time of his death, Mrs. Fall's father owned forty-five thousand acres of rich Texas lands, a huge estate which passed out of his family before his children grew to maturity.

New Mexico is Mrs. Fall's adopted state. She looks upon it as home and regards its progressiveness and its wonderful resources with all a native's pride. At Three Rivers, Senator and Mrs. Fall live on a six-thousand-acre ranch. Their nearest neighbors are "only eight miles away." Their home is a handsome house with all modern improvements and conveniences, and when there they keep a big automobile in constant use.

Tooth Talks

In the official press organ of the health department of Austria, Dr. Wolf gives a variety of reasons in support of the idea that the state has a great interest in the problem of teeth of the rising generation. He says that since a carious condition of the teeth was responsible for much suffering and for the diminution of the power of resistance against disease, the health of the army was in a high degree dependent upon the hygienic condition of the soldiers' mouth and teeth. In schools a child suffering from toothache was unable to keep abreast of the teaching; it had to be absent from school frequently, and its mental activity and perception were impaired and the odor from diseased mouths of numerous children was a nuisance to the other pupils and teachers. There was no other disease of equal prevalence which could be so easily and effectively remedied as decay of the teeth. The movement has been accepted by the Australian public with great satisfaction.

In the examinations of 66,000 German children they found that boys and girls were affected with decay of the teeth in about equal proportions. Girls showed better first sets, but the boys had the better second sets. Human efficiency and its relation to production is probably the greatest question that demands attention at the present time. It involves all classes and upon that one thing alone depends the success or failure of our industrial and commercial institutions.

Physical fitness is the first consideration because mental fitness is of little value without physical strength to stand the strain. The first basic principles necessary are mastication, digestion and nutrition. Mastication, these three things, no person can be 100 percent efficient. Therefore good teeth and a clean, healthy mouth should be our first consideration. Well masticated food is easier digested than food that is bolted. A wise fireman putting coal into the fire under a boiler soon learns that throwing a reasonable amount of coal in at a time produces the best results, and that both coal and labor was saved. Proper work done at the start saves fuel and better results are obtained.

"We hear a great deal about the high cost of living and still we go on with poor mastication for digestive work and its resultant waste. It often takes a long time to put our stomachs entirely out of commission by bolting our food, but when it does happen we find that it takes a great long time to get things right again, if we ever do."

Since good, sound teeth are so important to good digestion and health, would it not be well, while for a little daily effort to prevent their destruction. Half our number of teeth is somewhat like half a loaf of bread; we are short weight in a way. Efficiency, both mental and physical is what is wanted today and it is up to us to attain the desired quantity.

Practice Versus Preaching.

Our young people have thought and written much on labor and reform, and for all that they have written, neither the world nor themselves have got on a step. Intellectual tasting of life will not supersede muscular activity. If a man should consider the nicety of the passage of a piece of bread down his throat, he would starve.—Emerson.

EVERYDAY TALKS FOR EVERYDAY PEOPLE

BY FRANCES JOYCE KENNEDY.

If a housekeeper uses a cloth for cleaning purposes she must afterwards clean the cloth; that increases her work. There are many tasks of cleaning where a cloth is necessary, but there are many places where paper may be used just as well and burned after the cleaning is done. Dusting of furniture and woodwork where scratches show, needs the use of a cloth. Cheesecloth makes a serviceable duster, is cheap, and when rung out of water and then out of kerosene and allowed to dry, makes a good dustless duster for woodwork.

Outing duster produces more of a polish and can be used to advantage in cleaning silver; also as a cap for the broom used to sweep a highly polished floor.

Silk is the material to use in dusting your piano as its smooth surface keeps dust from adhering to it, consequently is never gritty or scratchy.

Our mothers used moistened paper to keep down the dust in sweeping; the modern dustless sweepers accomplish the same results with oil. A moistened paper is the very best thing on which to employ a carpet sweeper as the damp paper holds the dust. Mirrors and windows can be cleaned with paper. The softer tissue is better than newspapers, because there is no ink on it. Lamp chimneys can be treated in the same manner.

All pans or kettles used for cooking, if cleaned out with paper, will be easier to wash and will keep your drainage pipe cleaner. The same treatment applied to the kitchen stove will be found to be satisfactory and will save much cleaning of extra cloths.

Soft tissue paper readily cleans flatirons. Moisten the paper slightly and dip in scouring soap or salt and rub it over the iron.

Much scrubbing in the kitchen can be eliminated and the kitchen not suffer as to looking clean and fresh by the use of papers. Put on the kitchen table when preparing vegetables or cleaning silver. They save scrubbing as the papers can be gathered up and burned. If put in the garbage can you can keep it really clean and sweet. Spread on shelves and in drawers, papers save much unnecessary cleaning, as a fresh paper can be quickly put in the place of a soiled one without the loss of time or trouble.

In the summer, especially on vacations, crepe (white) can be mustered into service for bureau covers and by stretching the edge a bit you have a ruffled effect.

In cold weather, paper spread between the springs and mattress of a bed makes a bed much warmer and as a pad will often take the place of rubber sheeting with satisfactory results.

It is generally the inexpensive things that lie nearest our hands that are most efficient. It's our place to be on the alert for such aids.

Heart and Home Problems

BY MISS ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) My husband is a druggist and very homely. I am a bookkeeper and considered a trifle better looking. People criticize me for working, but I am a society leader in this little city and do a great deal of entertaining, especially along the line of tango parties. I am unable to do so on my husband's scanty allowance. When would you advise me to do? Give up my work or continue to be a society butterfly?

(2) Would you advise me to wear the tango corsets at all times or just while I'm dancing?

(3) Where could I purchase a tango speedometer? Where are they worn?

H. S.
(1) You must do as you think best. But don't you think you would really be happier and perhaps do a little more good in the world if you didn't run quite so much to tango and a little more toward home and husband? I am old-fashioned enough to believe that a woman's first duty is toward home and family, and that she will find much pleasure in this if she goes about it in the right spirit. One may entertain unpretentiously now and then, without spending much money.

(2) The tango corsets are very sensible and if you just wear a corset I should advise this kind.

(3) I do not know anything about tango speedometers.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am seventeen and one-half years of age and weigh 115 pounds. Do you think this is enough for my age and height, which is about five and one-half feet, and do you think I will gain as I grow older? How many hours do you think I ought to sleep? That I could give my girl friend for her eighteenth birthday? She wants most everything, so it is so hard to

MISS V.
(1) You are heavy enough for your age, my dear. You will probably grow heavier. Sleep at least nine hours, but don't think that nine hours beginning at midnight will do you as much good as nine hours beginning, say, at 10 p. m. One's "beauty sleep" is before midnight.

(2) If she has almost everything, give her something quite simple—a pretty scarf, a dainty bow to wear on her waist, a bonnet cap, sachets to hang among her dresses, slipper buckles, etc.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am going with a boy and I love him dearly, and he says he loves me, but he is away from here in a big city, where there are lots of pretty girls, and he is always telling me about them. He has asked me to marry him three times. Should I? I have gone with him for three years off and on.

(2) Should I go where he is to marry or should he come here to marry?

(3) Is a girl eighteen too young to marry? DANK EYES.

(1) It is natural for a man to admire pretty girls. I wouldn't bother about it if I were you, especially as he seems to prefer you above them all. A man who keeps on asking a girl to marry him is pretty apt to be in love with her. Whether you should marry him or not depends upon whether he can support a wife and is old enough to know how to treat a wife.

(2) If it is possible he should come to your town to marry you.

(3) Some girls are not, but it is usually more sensible for a girl to wait until she is a little older.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Can you please tell me what will make the arms grow?

(2) Is pink a pretty color for a blonde to wear?

(3) What color dress is prettiest—a pink or a white—to wear to a reception. BEAUTY.

(1) Vaseline rubbed on daily. This is an odd question. Usually I am asked how to remove hair on the arms.

(2) I should think it would be very pretty for a blonde who is not tall.

(3) Either would be pretty.

Household Hint

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.
To clean tan shoes: Rub the shoes with powdered pumice stone before shining. It will remove almost every mark or stain.

Put a little draft on bread that is rising may be to come up very slowly, and perhaps spoil it altogether.

In mixing flour gravy, use a silver fork and the gravy will never be lumpy.

Clean white enameled furniture by dissolving one tablespoonful of baking soda in a pint of warm water. Saturate a soft cloth and wash the furniture.

THE TABLE
Rice Muffins—Two and one-quarter cups of flour, three-quarter cup of hot cooked rice, five teaspoonfuls of baking powder, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, one cup of milk, one cup of butter, one-half teaspoonful of melted butter, two tablespoonfuls of salt. Mix and sift the flour, sugar, salt, and baking powder add one-half milk, egg well beaten, and the remainder of the milk mixed with the rice. Bake in buttered muffin rings placed in buttered pan or buttered gem pans.

Egg in Batter—One egg, one and one-half tablespoonfuls of thick cream, two tablespoonfuls of fine stale bread crumbs, one-quarter teaspoonful of salt.

Mix the cream, bread crumbs and the salt. Put one-half tablespoonful of the mixture in the egg-shirer. Put in egg, and cover with the remaining mixture. Bake six minutes in a moderate oven.

Asparagus Soup—Three cans of white stock, one can of asparagus, two cups of cold water, one slice of onion, one-quarter cup of butter, one-quarter cup of flour, two cups of scalded milk, salt and pepper. Drain and rinse the asparagus, reserve the tips and add the stalks to the cold water; boil five minutes, drain, add the butter and onion, boil thirty minutes; rub through a sieve, and bind with the butter and flour cooked together. Add the salt, pepper, milk, and tips.

Salmon Force-Meat—One-half cup of milk, one-half cup of soft stale bread crumbs, one-half of cold flaked salmon, two tablespoonfuls of cream, one egg, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, one-half teaspoonful of salt, few grains of pepper.

Cook the milk and bread crumbs ten minutes, add the salmon chopped and rubbed through a sieve; then add the cream, egg slightly beaten, melted butter, salt and pepper.

German Dressing—One-half cup of thick cream, three tablespoonfuls of vinegar, one-quarter teaspoonful of salt, few grains of pepper. Beat the cream until stiff. Add the salt, pepper and vinegar very slowly, continuing the beating.

Chocolate Dominoes—One-half cup of pecan nut meats, one-half cup of English walnut meats, one-half cup of raisins, one-half cup of dates, grated rind of an orange, one teaspoonful of orange juice, one square chocolate, melted.

Mix the nuts, figs and the dates, and force through a meat chopper, or chop finely. Add the remaining ingredients, toss on a board sprinkled with powdered sugar, and roll to one-third inch in thickness. Cut in domino shapes, spread thinly with melted unsweetened chocolate, and decorate with small pieces of blanched almonds to imitate dominoes.

NERVOUS WOMEN

Made Strong by Vinol.

A case has just come to our attention from St. Augustine, Fla. Mrs. W. B. Mamoy had suffered for two years from nervous prostration and indigestion. She had no appetite and was miserable. After trying different medicines and doctors without benefit she saw Vinol advertised and tried it. Her appetite returned, nervousness disappeared and she was soon strong and well as ever.

Weakness may be caused by a run-down condition, mal-assimilation of food, lack of iron in the blood or a result of sickness.

Whatever the cause, we want to say to every person who needs strength, you need Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil, as it is the most efficient strength creator we have in our store.

It is the medicinal elements of the cod's livers contained in Vinol aided by the blood making and strengthening properties of tonic iron which makes it so successful and we will return your money if it does not help you. Smith Drug Co., Druggists, Janesville, Wis.

P. S. For Eczema of Scalp try our Saxo Salve. We guarantee it.

Relief From Constipation

It's Me For Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not cool, calm, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative. No gripping, is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" now and then—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver and are constipated, you'll find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take one or two every night just to keep right. Try them. 10c and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet Co., Columbus, O. All druggists.

CHAPTER I.

March Comes in Like the Lion.

The train, which had roared through a withering gale of sleet all the way up from New York, came to a standstill, with many an earsplitting sigh, alongside the little station, and a reluctant porter opened his vestibule door to descend to the snow-swept platform: a solitary passenger had reached the journey's end. The swirl of snow and sleet screaming out of the blackness at the end of the station building enveloped the porter in an instant, and cut his ears and neck with stinging force as he turned his back against the gale. A pair of lonely, half-obscured platform lights gleamed fatuously at the top of their icy posts at each end of the station; two or three frost-incrusted windows glowed dully in the side of the building, while one shone brightly where the operator sat waiting for the passing of No. 33.

An order had been issued for the stopping of the fast express at B—, a noteworthy concession in these days of premeditated haste. Not in the previous career of flying 33 had it even so much as slowed down for the insignificant little station, through which it swooped at midnight the whole year round. Just before pulling out of New York on this eventful night the conductor received a command to stop 33 at B— and let down a single passenger, a circumstance which meant trouble for every dispatcher along the line.

The woman who got down at B— in the wake of the shivering but deferential porter, and who passed by the conductors without lifting her face, was without hand luggage of any description. She was heavily veiled, and warmly clad in furs. At eleven o'clock that night she had entered the compartment in New York. Throughout the thirty miles or more she had sat alone and inert, beside the snow-clogged window, peering through veil and frost into the night that whizzed past the pane, seeing nothing yet apparently intent on all that stretched beyond. As still, as immobile as death itself she had held herself from the moment of departure to the instant that brought the porter with the word that they were whistling for B—.

Without a word she arose and followed him to the vestibule, where she watched him as he unfasted the outer door and lifted the trap. A single word escaped her lips and he held out his hand to receive the crumpled bill she clutched in her gloved fingers. He did not look at it. He knew that it would amply reward him for the brief exposure he endured on the lonely, wind-swept platform of a station, the name of which he did not know.

She took several uncertain steps in the direction of the station windows and stopped, as if bewildered. Already the engine was pounding the air with quick, vicious snorts in the effort to get under way; the vestibule trap and door closed with a bang; the wheels were creaking. A bitter wind smote her in the face; the wet, hurrying sleet crashed against the thin veil, blinding her.

The door of the waiting room across the platform opened and a man rushed toward her.

"Mrs. Wrandall?" he called above the roar of the wind.

She advanced quickly.

"Yes."

"What a night!" he said, as much to himself as to her. "I'm sorry you would insist on coming tonight. Tomorrow morning would have satisfied me."

"Is this Mr. Drake?"

They were being blown through the door into the waiting room as she put the question. Her voice was muffled. The man in the great fur coat put his weight against the door to close it.

"Yes, Mrs. Wrandall. I have done all that could be done under the circumstances. I am sorry to tell you that we still have two miles to go by motor before we reach the inn. My car is open—I don't possess a limousine—but if you will lie down in the tonneau you will find some protection from—"

She broke in sharply, impatiently. "Pray do not consider me, Mr. Drake. I am not afraid of the blizzard."

"Then we'd better be off," said he, a note of anxiety in his voice—a certain touch of nervousness. "I drive my own car. The road is good, but I shall drive cautiously. Ten minutes, perhaps. I—I am sorry you thought best to brave this wretched—"

"I am not sorry for myself, Mr. Drake, but for you. You have been most kind. I did not expect you to meet me."

"I took the liberty of telephoning to you. It was well that I did it early in the evening. The wires are down now, I fear." He hesitated for a moment, staring at her as if trying to penetrate the thick, wet veil. "I may have brought you on a fool's errand. You see, I—I have seen Mr. Wrandall but once, in town somewhere, and I may be wrong. Still, the corner—and the sheriff—seemed to think you should be notified—I might say questioned. That is why I called you up. I trust, madam, that I am mistaken."

"Yes," she said shrilly, betraying the intensity of her emotion. It was as if she lacked the power to utter more than a single word, which signified neither acquiescence nor approval.

He was ill at ease, distressed. "I have engaged a room for you at the inn, Mrs. Wrandall. You did not bring a maid, I see. My wife will come over from our place to stay with you if you—"

She shook her head. "Thank you, Mr. Drake. It will not be necessary. I came alone by choice. I shall return to New York tonight."

Broadway Jones

From the Play of George M. Cohan

With Music by Sam H. Steptoe

Copyright, 1914, by G. M. Cohan Company

"Thanks, Mr. Wallace, but the credit really belongs to Bob." The delight which Broadway felt was plainly audible in his voice.

Bob laughed. "I knew he'd say that!"

"He has told me of your modesty," said the elder Wallace. "I am very proud that you have taken him into the firm, and if advertising has any market value we'll fight them to a finish. I have promised my son to return here Monday morning. I may have a proposition to put before you. I'd like to see him an equal partner in a business with such a promising future."

"I don't know what to say, Mr. Wallace," Broadway answered, and he really did not.

"Monday will be time enough," the elder Wallace answered genially.

He had an appointment with Pembroke at his house tomorrow. After I have had ten minutes' walk with him I promise you that the Consolidated people will make no further attempts to absorb. But now I must go. Good night!"

Jackson grasped his hand with fervor. What a night this was!

"Going to motor back?" asked Bob.

"Yes; I prefer my motor car to the railroad. See you Monday. Good night!"

"Isn't it like a dream?" asked Bob after the last glimmer of glow from the car's headlight had vanished down the road.

"I can't believe it's true."

"He wants to buy a half interest in your business. Did you get that?"

"All I want is enough to pay my debts."

Bob laughed. "Don't tell him that; he's a business man!"

"But—"

"I think you'd better let me handle that for you."

"Will you? Fine!" It suddenly occurred to him that he must tell his friend at once about the Rankin-Gerard episode, but he did not mean to break his promise to the ancient bride. "Say, Bob, I've just—I've just had a telephone message from New York. What do you think has happened?"

"Go on, tell me."

"Mrs. Gerard has denied her engagement to me and is going to marry the earl of Cortland."

Wallace took this in a gulp of joy. "Honestly?"

"I just got the word."

"A million congratulations, old pal!" In a mad enthusiasm he shook hands with Broadway. "Three cheers for everybody in the world!"

Broadway seized him and, in an ec-cess of perfect satisfaction with the way the world was wagging they danced there in the moonlight.

"The earl of Cortland?" Bob exclaimed at length. "Who the deuce is he? I never heard of him."

"I have. I've seen him."

"You have? What does he look like?"

Broadway paused, as if in thought. "Well, he's the very image of—say, you know my butler?"

"Rankin?"

"Yes. Well, he looks just like him. You'd hardly know them apart."

"You don't say?"

"Yes; a wonderful resemblance."

"I wonder what became of Rankin?" Bob speculated idly. He had liked Rankin.

"I think he surmised I was going to locate here and he didn't like the town."

Bob nodded. "Gone, is he? Well, maybe that was it."

The girls caught sight of them as they approached the house and Clara ran to them. "Oh, there you are! Where's your father, Bob?"

"He's gone."

"Oh, I wanted to see him!"

"You'll see him Monday."

"Come on. Let's go and get an orange-ice-cream soda."

"Oh, let's! Come on, Josie."

"We'll be right along," said Broadway. "You go on ahead."

Josie came down the steps with less precipitancy than Clara, but she did not really hesitate. Broadway went to her with hand outstretched to help and that peculiar earnest face he always wore when thinking deeply, even of the most delightful subjects.

"Do you care if I call you 'Josie'?" he inquired. "He calls her 'Clara' and she calls him 'Bob'."

"Why, that's my name," said she with the simplicity of the frank country maiden.

He wasted not a moment's time. "That's not the reason I'm so anxious to," he said. "It's because I'm fond of you. I love you, Josie."

"Why, how can you say such a thing?"

"Oh, I know, you heard I was engaged, but I'm not," he eagerly explained. "That was all a joke. I can't explain it all now. Will you marry me, Josie?"

"What?"

"I mean it; honestly, I do! What I've needed, all along, was an incentive."

He was very earnest; perhaps he was not quite aware that he was slipping into words which she might possibly remember.

"What I've needed all along was an incentive—something to work for. That's what I've needed all my life. My—er—grandfather had something to work for and he handed it down to his children; now I want something to work for, which I can hand down to my—"

"Why, Mr. Jones!" He did not even know that she was blushing. He was far too much in earnest.

"Don't call me Mr. Jones. You know what I want you to call me. Go on. Let me hear you say it as you used to say it."

"Jackson?"

"No; call me Broadway."

"Why? Do you still love Broadway?"

"I don't quite know," he answered as he gently drew her toward him and then kissed her.

She did not resist or protest.

"Come on," he presently suggested. "Let's you and me go get some ice-cream soda, too."

THE END.

ECZEMA 25 YEARS FACE A MASS OF IT

Says "Resinol Cured Me of One of the Worst Cases Anybody Ever Saw."

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 20, 1912: "I had eczema for the last twenty-five years, and have been afflicted so badly that for weeks I could not go outside the door. My face was one mass of pimples, and not only the looks of it but the itching and burning pains I experienced were just dreadful. I lost a great deal of sleep and had to keep dampened cloths on my face all night to relieve the pain. I had become disgusted with trying different things."

"One day I made up my mind to try Resinol, and after using one jar of Resinol Ointment, and one cake of Resinol Soap, I saw the difference, and now my face is as clear as anybody's, and I certainly don't need to be ashamed to go out. Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment cured me of one of the worst cases of eczema. I guess that anybody ever saw." (Signed) Mrs. C. Helmsmith, 521 E. 12th Street.

Try Resinol yourself and see how quickly the itching stops and stubborn eruptions disappear. Resinol Ointment and Soap are sold by all druggists. For free trial, write to Dept. 19-M, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

Dinner Stories

During a recent aviation meeting a woman went through the hangars and asked the usual foolish questions that aviators and their mechanics have to answer.

"But what if your engine stops in the air—what happens? Can't you come down?"

"That's exactly the trouble," responded the willing guide. "There are now three men up in the air in France with their engines stopped. They can't get down and are starving to death!"

"Here, boy," Dibbs called, "run over to Phibbs and get three cents' worth of pigeon's milk, will you? Bring the change back to me and he'll be quick about it."

The boy set out but did not return for some time, and when he did get back the chief partner was giving some orders to Reginald.

Lincoln at the time of his death

WHEN men become distinguished historic figures many incidents which at the time were trivial and inconsequential become significant and certain places assume an importance due entirely to their association with some critical stage in the career of these famous men.

In American history many are the prominent figures who have left at their early homes or at other places some memorial of their coming fame, some token of their future greatness, but none of these has left in number or interest or significance so many as our first martyred president—Abraham Lincoln.

Early Life.

Born in a Kentucky cabin in the most abject poverty, Lincoln fought his way to the White House by perseverance and hard study. His father was both ignorant and shiftless—a carpenter of mediocre ability and a farmer who was unable to produce crops. The log cabin in which the elder Lincoln lived with his wife and three children was scarcely fit to stable a cow in, and his "farm" was the roughest sort of a clearing—rocky, weedy and scrubby. In short, he was of the class known in the South as "poor whites." But his wife was different—a slender, pale faced woman, who could read and write. Her ambitions were crushed out by the poverty-stricken surroundings, for she was unable to do anything apart from housework and sewing in order to keep the three children in food and clothing. She literally worked herself to death, but while doing so she laid the foundations of truth and honor in the mind of her son Abraham, for as she worked to keep the wolf from the door she taught her children the difference between good and bad and between honesty and dishonesty.

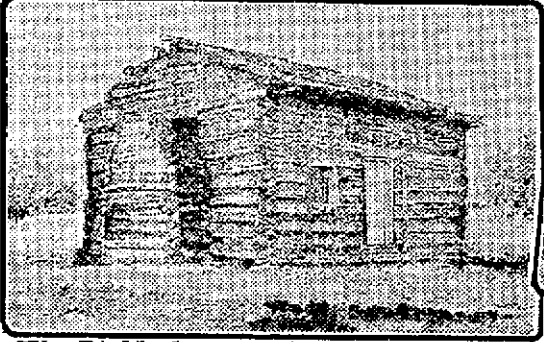

The family moved from place to place, becoming poorer at each move, if that were possible. Then Mrs. Lincoln died, and the long winter which ship of the Territory of Oregon. He had about decided to accept, but Mrs. Lincoln said "No," so the matter was settled, and he once more resumed the practice of law in Springfield after declining the partnership of a well-known lawyer in Chicago. In 1860 Mr. Lincoln received the nomination for president. He was sitting in a newspaper office in Springfield when the news arrived, and at once hurried home to tell his ambitious wife. His election was scarcely assured when it became evident secession was in the air. Even before he had drafted his inaugural address South Carolina had taken the lead in the secession movement. The chair which Lincoln used when he wrote this famous address is in the possession of Mr. Osborn Oroyde, of Washington, D. C.

The tempestuous life of his first term is too well known to need repetition here. He had been in office little more than five weeks when the War of the Rebellion began by the firing on Fort Sumpter. It was a bitter struggle—the fight between brothers, but at last the Federal forces triumphed and the black clouds of war rolled away. Mr. Lincoln was re-elected President in 1864. He saw the dawn of peace. He had reached the climax of his career and touched the highest point of his greatness.

Presentment of Violent Death.
From his early youth he had presentments that he would die a violent death, but notwithstanding these presentments he frequently made trips alone. During the summer months he lived at the Soldiers' Home, a few miles outside of Washington, and he frequently made the trip between the White House and the Home on horseback. One night he was fired upon by someone in ambush, the bullet passing through his hat. He attributed it to an accident and would not admit that the man fired the shot at him. Mr. Lincoln was fond of the theatre, and now that the war clouds were lifted he began to enjoy his favorite plays. "Our American

The Oroyde Collection of Relics.

The house in which the President died on the following morning is directly opposite the theatre on Tenth Street. At present it is occupied by Mr. Osborn H. Oroyde, who has a large collection of Lincoln relics. This man has been an admirer of Lincoln from his boyhood and although he never saw the great statesman he has made a remarkable collection of articles pertaining to Lincoln's life. Among the most interesting are the old office chair which Lincoln used when he drafted his first inaugural address; the old cooking stove used in the Lincoln home; the flag used to drape the President's box on the night of his assassination; autographs of Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln, photographs of each, and a lock of Mrs. Lincoln's hair. The most valuable thing is the old Lincoln Bible, which is more than a hundred years old. Lincoln's autograph, written when he was but nine years of age, is still legible on the blank leaf of the Bible. The book is carefully preserved in a glass case and few people are permitted to touch it. Somehow it seems that about this old Bible are clustered hallowed memories of the great statesman who as a child heard the Word read from its leaves at his mother's knee in his cabin home in the then Far West.

These are but a few of the spots hallowed by the memories of this great statesman whose name will ever be a watchword for the American youth. His gentle soul will live forever in those immortal words he uttered in his second inaugural address which breathed the spirit of brotherly love and of a prayer for an early peace: "With malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right, let us finish this work we are in, to bind up the Nation's wounds to care for him who shall have borne the battle, and for his widow and orphan, to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves and with all Nations."

HERMIT OF ORFORD IS LODGED IN JAIL

Deputy Sheriff Chases Escaped Insane Patient Five Miles in Snow Storm Before Capture.

Arrested by Deputy Sheriff Wesley Jones after a chase in Friday's snow storm for over five miles, Adam Rhidal was sentenced by Charles Taylor, justice of peace at Orfordville, to twenty days at the Rock county jail on a vagrancy charge. Rhidal was brought to Janesville on Saturday and was put to work on the woodpile.

When searched Sheriff Whipple found a nursing bottle with a nipple, an old battered toy gun, a razor, although the tramp had not shaved for five years and an expensive jackknife. From all appearance the prisoner is mentally unbalanced. When asked where he had been staying Rhidal told the officers he had been eking out an existence by begging his food and sleeping out of doors. Farmers in the vicinity of Orfordville have found the man sleeping in their barns and hay stacks, and it was feared that he would fire some of the buildings, as traces of fire have been found in several of the barns.

Last November Sheriff Whipple received the report that there was a hermit living at Hanover marsh stealing his livelihood from the farmers' milkhouses. Over a year ago Rhidal was arrested on a similar charge and was found sleeping in a school house near the Rehfeld farm on the Hanover road. Hunters in the Hanover swamp have found traces of fires and rude shacks where the hermit had stayed, but no one was able to catch a glimpse of the man.

Rhidal is a typical picture of the legendary Robinson Crusoe, for although only thirty-five years of age, he has a beard that hangs to his chest and has allowed his coal black hair to grow a foot long. According to his story he has a mother and word has been sent to them for proper care. When questioned the mysterious hermit says he remembers being at the Mendota Asylum and one night he got to go to supper and made his escape and has been living the hermit's life, stunning humanity, since that time.

It was found that he had a small amount of money on his person and

HOUNDS SPEND DAYS ON TRAIL OF WOLVES

Dogs Belonging to Evansville Sportsmen Stick to Trail in Hundred Mile Chase.

Since Tuesday of last week two hounds belonging to Evansville sportsmen have been on the trail of a pair of wolves that were jumped near Gibb's Lake in the town of Porter, and have chased the beasts for over a hundred miles.

Dr. Charles Ware, Carl Broughton and Arthur Broughton put a pack of six fox hounds on a fresh trail Tuesday morning and the dogs started two wolves near the lake. From here the dogs circled and it is thought the wolves separated and doubled up on the tracks. Reports indicate that the dogs had chased one of the wolves as far as Footville and then east as they were seen in the vicinity of Edgerton. Two of the hounds returned home after three days' chase and two were found near Fulton, but the remaining two have either kept on the trail or farmers have stolen them, as they are noted trailers. They were seen on the ice apparently following a trail Friday afternoon, near Leyden, and it is thought they have refused to give up the chase.

SAYS SWEETHEART TRIED TO KILL HIM

Mildred Johnson and Sol H. Schachtel.

Mildred Johnson, a pretty society girl of New Lexington, O., is under arrest, charged with having shot Sol H. Schachtel, her former lover. The shooting took place in a lawyer's office, after Schachtel had refused to marry the girl. If an indictment is secured against the girl it is believed that she will plead the unwritten law.

"A Little Bird Told Me So." The popular expression, "A little bird told me so," used to convey the idea that by telling you would betray your informant, but is probably adapted from the twentieth verse of the tenth chapter of Ecclesiastes: "Curse not the king, no not in thy thought; and curse not the rich in thy bedchamber; for a bird of the air shall carry thy voice, and that which hath wings shall tell the matter."

KEY MADE IN A MINUTE

Little Machine for Duplicating Lock Openers of the Pin Variety.

The pin key is the flat key with a saw tooth edge which is at present in general use and nearly every one has had the experience of becoming separated from his bunch of keys, including a couple of pin keys. And when you went to the locksmith he told you it would cost several dollars to have him get the lock and make a key to fit, but if you would get the key owned by some one else he would make a duplicate. He would take occasion to impress you with the great delicacy of the operation and perhaps charge you 50 cents for the duplicate. Considerable amount of bother is the result, and the whole incident is voted a nuisance, but one not to be avoided under the circumstances.

Think of going to the locksmith under the new order of things and having him hand you a new key in a minute after you have handed him the original key from which you desire the duplicate made.

NEW MACHINE FOR CUTTING PIN LOCK KEYS.

This is entirely possible by the use of the machine shown herewith, which has been recently patented. There are two vices located side by side and in one the key is firmly placed and in the other the blank is secured. In front of the key is a guide and in front of the blank is a fine grinding wheel, and as the finger of the guide is run along the saw-tooth edge of the key the grinder is in operation cutting a corresponding slot or groove in the blank. In one minute the task is completed. One key must be exactly like the other if they have been properly seated in the vice.

FOUND THAT HOGS COULD JUMP.

A Geary county (Kan.) farmer built a "hog-tight" fence around his feed lot just before he received a big shipment of Arkansas "razorbacks." The next morning the hogs were scattered all over the county. It was found that most of them could clear the fence with a standing jump, although some of them were compelled to make a running jump of it. But all of them could jump it.

PROSPERITY

By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Slawsh."

PROSPERITY is a national condition of business which is so satisfactory that the party out of power can find an excuse to complain.

Nothing is more inspiring than prosperity. The mills double in size, the railroads are so busy that even the freight solicitors are impatient, a new millionaire is turned out of New York every twenty-four hours and stock sellers collect their money first and tell their patrons what they have bought afterwards. It is indeed a comfort to the man who hasn't been able to grab off enough of the general avalanche of cash to make a living to know that the rest of the world is prosperous and will take care of his orphans when he passes gloomily on.

The great trouble with prosperity, as it is generally recognized, is that it is too careless. It causes two millionaires to grow where only one grew before, but it is just as likely to make two washwomen struggle for one job. Prosperity specializes in the workman and initiates many happy thousands into the International Order of Gasoline Burners. But it also whoops the price of living until the clerk whose wages only go up $5 per decade shivers with dread when he hears the advance toots of the era of good times—and the man who has retired because of age and is attempting to live on an income of $125 per year has to lean heavily on the county for assistance.

There is a growing feeling that prosperity ought to begin from the bottom and work up instead of beginning at the top of trickling down—and that the prosperity which allows a man to work faithfully for sixty years, contributing large numbers of citizens to the census reports and spending only an occasional nickel on riotous living, ought to be entitled to cut into the National glory of prosperity to the extent of a comfortable old age at home instead of in Ward C of the county institution for the support of those who have spent a life time chasing the coat of living with their salaries. When a man has been honest and industrious all his life and has saved nothing but his reputation he is entitled to snort derisively at the man who has made his money in the night and ask why it is so exclusive. Prosperity is a great thing, but it is a little too lumpy and uneven at present.

DON'T TAKE THE LAWYERS SERIOUSLY.

A lawyer in a courtroom may call a man a liar, scoundrel, villain or thief, and no one makes complaint when court adjourns. "If a newspaper prints such a reflection on a man's character," says the Hill City New Era, "there is a libel suit or a dead editor. This may be owing to the fact that the people believe what an editor says."—Kansas City Star.

He often acts unjustly who does not do a certain thing; not only he who does a certain thing.—Marcus Antoninus.

HOT TEA BREAKS A COLD-TRY THIS

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

All the Difference. "They say my son is a credit to me." "Mine," said his friend, "has never been anything but a liability."

A HAPPY CHILD IN JUST A FEW HOURS

When cross, constipated or if feverish give "California Syrup of Figs" then don't Worry.

Mothers can rest easy after giving "California Syrup of Figs," because in a few hours all the clogged-up waste, sour bile and fermenting food gently moves out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, and they become tightly packed, liver gets sluggish and stomach disordered.

When cross, feverish, restless, see if tongue is coated, then give this delicious "fruit laxative." Children love it, and it cannot cause injury. No difference what ails your little one—if full of cold, or a sore throat, diarrhoea, stomach-ache, bad breath, or a gentle, gentle, gentle cleansing should always be the first treatment given. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are printed on each bottle. Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no smaller size. Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

A Good Fuel Our Hardwood Kindling makes an ideal fuel for all times of the year. It is clean, bone-dry and of convenient size to handle. It comes from maple flooring factories and is kiln dried before it is shipped and we store it under cover.
